Echoing across two centuries came the essence, the spark, that led to the birth of a nation. It had survived 200 years and was the cohesive force that preserved the country through a history of mixed prosperity and depression, war and peace, domestic tranquility and insurrection. It was reflected in our thoughts and deeds; and, in our world, this year, it was . . . the Eastern Spirit of '76.

The Eastern Spirit of '76 was that of its people; the men and women of the University Community whose presence brought viability to a campus that had served others like them for more than a century.

It came from within, a deeply running fiber bred of environment and introspection.

Manifested in interrelationships, the Spirit became evident through the involvement of its holders in their learning experiences.

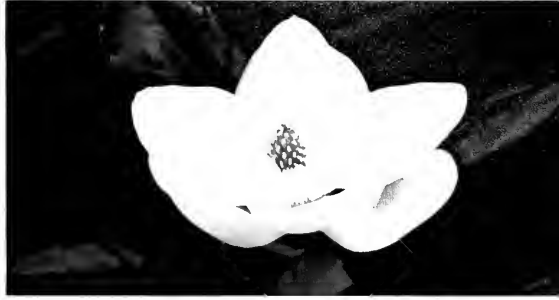

As the intangible itself matured, it provided the catalyst for growth of personal and institutional nature against a backdrop of nature's perpetual renewal.

Logically, then, success was realized by those who recognized the Spirit and nurtured it in the achievement of their goals.

It is a continuing thing, this Spirit of Eastern — born of the past, cherished in the present — and for the future, a bequest to preserve.

Moving in Takes United Effort

Moving in, the big hassle, as the 7,500 campus residents among the 13,430 students and their parents bring box, after box, of clothes and other belongings to fill empty rooms. Friends, parents, and members of the Military Police volunteer help and time to assist in the tiring process of moving numerous loads of clothes and "vital necessities," and the task of making a disarranged room livable and comfortable. Mass confusion accompanied by new students trying to find their way around provides for a difficult task that must be repeated every year.

Crowded Rooms Add Headaches

"You've got to be kidding" was one of the milder exclamations from students who arrived on Eastern's campus only to find that they had been assigned three to a room. After hours of waiting endless lines of red tape all 7,094 students requiring an on-campus place to live were assigned to rooms. Housing attributes this phenomenon to Title IX, unemployment and a larger enrollment in Eastern's Law Enforcement departments. Although many students were angry and disgusted others thrived on their new found adventure, working their problems out, and making lasting friends in the process. The University planned converting suitable spaces to living rooms to ease the problem.

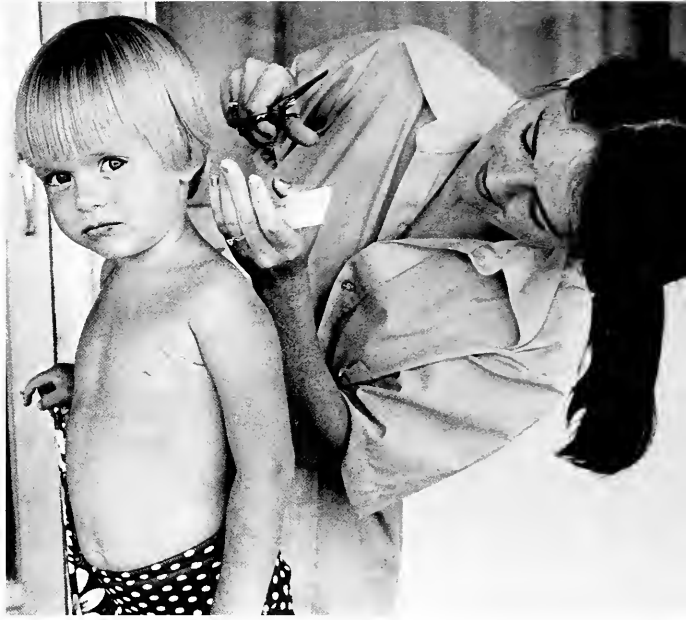

Right: Signs in Case Hall help minimize confusion for incoming freshmen women. Below: Cramped rooms motivate students to stand in long lines in hopes of getting changed to a less crowded situation.

Brockton Is Home For Many EKU Married Students

Married students are a familiar sight at Eastern. Some couples start their marriage at school while other older couples return to EKU to finish degrees.

No matter what age, many couples turn to Brockton for their living quarters. A continuing rise in the economy force students to turn to this cheaper type of housing. Rent, light, and gas bills just don't seem as high when living in Brockton.

Brockton offers a variety of living facilities. They range from trailers to both one and two bedroom apartments.

Life in Brockton isn't much different than that of any other subdivision. The familiar sights and sounds of children, pets, and parents are ever present.

Fall Registration Confuses Students

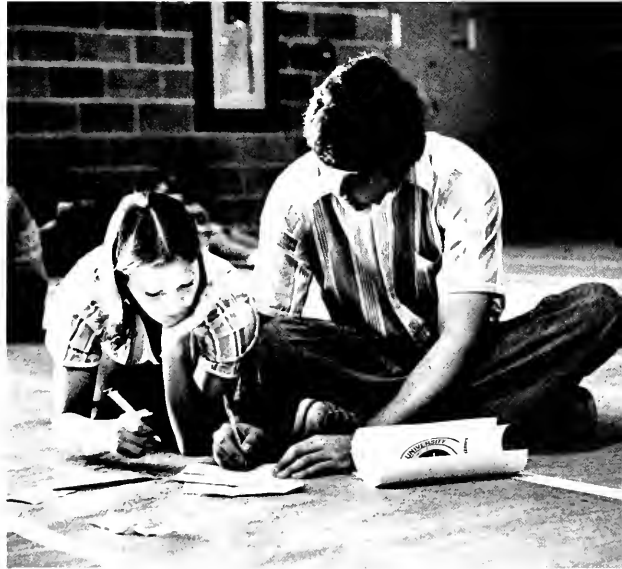

Before students can begin the grind of study and classes, they must first bring order from the chaos of fall registration. Class cards, long lines and often bitter frustration with the entire system are all part of the registration scene. Though bewilderment seems inevitable, the schedule finally takes shape — possibly with a few unwanted 8 o'clock classes. The battle ends with a sigh of relief. A vow is made not to have any deficiencies at mid-term in order to be allowed to pre-register so that the entire excruciating process will not have to be repeated.

University Store Serves Students

The University Store met growing student demands this year as students returned for another year of college. The aisles were filled with students searching through stacks of text books, paper, and other school supplies as the continuous ringing of the cash registers filled the air. The bookstore carried everything from cards, textbooks and art supplies to physical education equipment, beauty aids and posters. The bookstore also had all kinds of different candies stored in quaint old fashioned glass jars.

Due to the fact that the only competition to the bookstore went out of business in February the University Store will be the only place to purchase school supplies next year.

Students Discover Unique Study Habitats

Students, throughout the year found a multitude of places to study. Favorite places, especially during the warm weather days of spring and fall, were the ravine and University Plaza area. Some students found that pooling their efforts and resources was the ideal way to study, while others managed to get away from all the excitement and confusion at a corner desk in the library. But whether indoors or out, students still took time out of their busy day's schedule to apply themselves to an important aspect of college life — studying.

Students Debate On Meals

At least three times a day, students ask themselves the all important question, "Where should I eat today?" The possibilities are countless but the end result is always the same — to eat on or off campus. You can eat in your room making a mess you hate to clean up, walk over to the grill or cafeteria where meals and sandwiches are served all day, or order a pizza, sandwich or salad from a restaurant who will deliver.

Restaurants line both sides of the by-pass. This year steak has been added to the menu of chicken, pizza and hamburgers.

The question — "What to eat?" became more of a problem each semester as new establishments were added on the by-pass. But students enjoyed the variety.

Home Cooking — Ma's Speciality

Almost every Eastern student has visited Ma Kelly's sometime during the course of his collegiate career. "Ma's" supplies a delicious diversion from the usual hamburger humdrum that many students are victims to. Some of the restaurant's specialties are fried chicken, meatloaf, mashed potatoes, creamed peas and corn and potato salad. The service is buffet style allowing the students, who make up two-thirds of the restaurant's business, to help themselves for a very moderate price. As long as there are students on Eastern's campus there will be a Ma Kelly's in Richmond.

Companions Vital To College Life

The informal atmosphere of Eastern's campus nourished the process of making new friends. Living together, working together and relaxing together all made up part of university life, which united the students in an ideal comradeship.

Neighborly gestures by far outweighed the idle quibbling between friends. College friendships served to provide an abundance of cherished memories, which students carried with them long after college years were over.

Onset Of Fall Brings Color To Campus

A rainbow of colors, a blanket of amber leaves, and transposing trees and plants all adorned the Eastern community during the fall. The magnificence of these golden sights engraved an impression on the mind's of all the campus inhabitants.

This delightful season of autumn provided a cool and peaceful atmosphere for outdoor activity. However, the gradual change of the surroundings made a large number of the dwellers feel as if they were mere bystanders at the liberty of nature. Even while looking forward to the upcoming season, thoughts of the beautiful autumn colors lingered behind.

The changing colors of leaves warned students that the last days of warm weather were approaching.

Students enjoy the warm Indian summer temperature as the leaves change color.

Greeks Enliven College Life

An important aspect of student life at Eastern is the Greek life provided by fraternities and sororities. The organizations provide students experience in athletics, and other social contacts while emphasizing academic achievement. A healthy environment of competition and friendships exist between the various Greek organizations through their interactions with each other.

School spirit is an important ideal of greek life, as is shown by the Kappa Alpha cannon crew and activities at the SAE fair.

Competition with other organizations while maintaining internal unity is a common characteristic of all greek organizations

Members of Greek organizations show an active interest in community and campus activities.

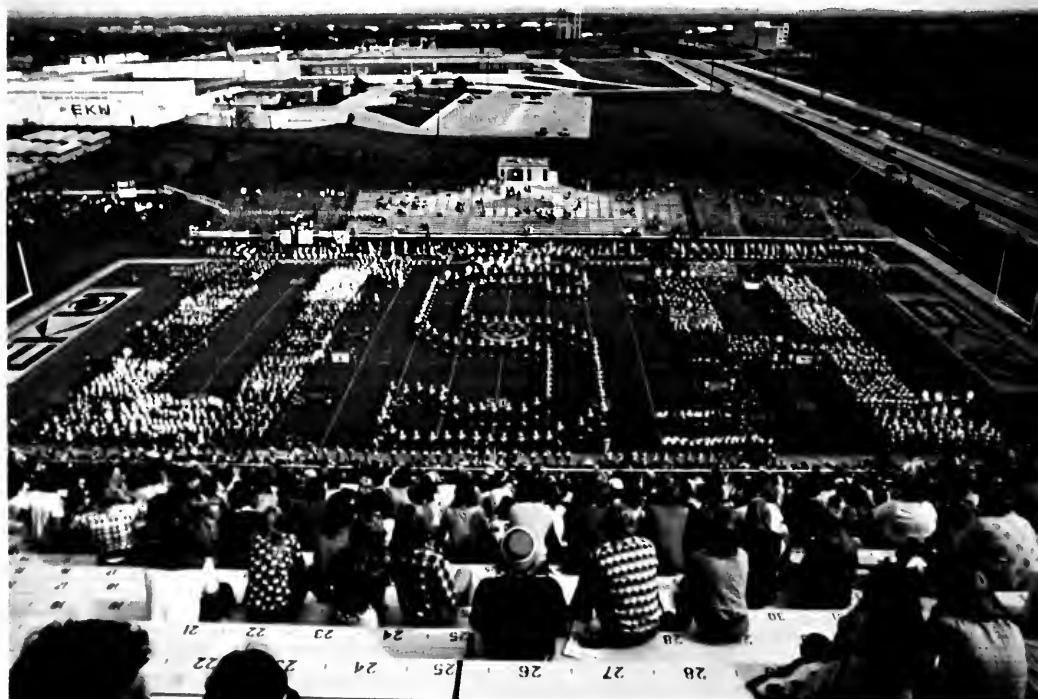

Competition is keen during the SAE Fair and Sigma Chi Derby.

Band Day Displays USA Birthday Theme

Saturday, October 4, was the annual band day at Eastern and more than 4,000 high school bandmen representing 37 bands from Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, and Tennessee participated in the annual event.

The activities of the day started with a parade from campus, through downtown Richmond, and ending at the Hanger Field. After the parade the musicians were given campus tours and had a chance to visit many of the historic parts of the campus. At halftime, the massed bands played a melody of songs consisting of Neil Sedaka's 'That's Where the Music Takes Me', 'Chameleon' by Maynard Ferguson, and concluding with a rousing rendition of 'America the Beautiful, Philadelphia Freedom and the 1812 Overture', while in a formation spelling USA.

Preparation Made For Homecoming

Pre-homecoming preparations were an important aspect of the overall Homecoming celebration. Weeks before the actual homecoming weekend, campus organizations began work on the floats for the parade. On the Friday afternoon before the game a pep rally bon fire was held where President Robert Martin gave a spirited talk to team members and students. The prehomecoming arrangements were topped off with the Homecoming Dance, held on the Friday night before the game in the Keene Johnson Ballroom where Homecoming Queen finalists were presented.

Homecoming Proves Colonels Victorious

The 1975 Eastern Kentucky University Homecoming festivities were kicked off by the annual parade, featuring floats provided by campus organizations, with a theme of "History on Parade". Eastern alumni came in full force to see the game between the two arch rivals, Eastern and Western. Greeted by other alums, at their annual luncheon they took an annual tour of campus to view the changes.

The day began with a cloudy overcast. By game time the rain had begun. A constant downpour during the game did not decrease the size of the capacity crowd. Tension mounted as the time came for the revenge that Eastern had waited six years for. The Colonels battled the Hilltoppers on the gridiron and came out on top by a score of 13 to 7. That night a celebration was in order with music provided at concert featuring Dave Loggins.

Homecoming

A Day In History

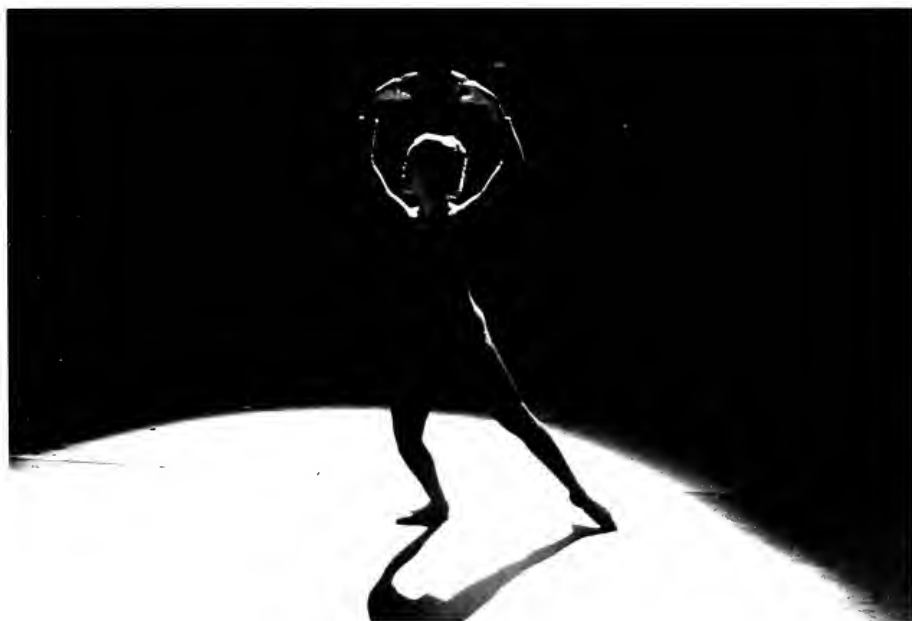

Miss Marilyn Dabney, a 19-year-old sophomore from Lexington, Kentucky, was elected to reign over the ceremonies of the 1975 Eastern Kentucky University activities as the Homecoming Queen. Miss Dabney, a striking brunette with dark brown eyes, is the first black woman ever to be elected to the position of Homecoming Queen, and in recalling her victory, felt that it was a great personal honor. She also felt she was contributing to Eastern and to her race in that the victory may open the way to other black women.

Marilyn is attending Eastern on a Presidential Scholarship and is majoring in social work, but plans to take courses in communications and possibly have her own TV show. After graduation she would like to teach secondary school or work with teenagers and juveniles. She is an active member of the Black Student Union and also enjoys sewing, drawing, modeling and modern dance.

Museums, Shrines

Preserve History

The history of American and the institution received emphasis during the Bicentennial Year through permanent displays on the campus and in Central Kentucky.

Kentucky and American history dating to Colonial America were perpetuated through the artifacts and displays in the Jonathan Truman Dorris Museum in the library and at Whitehall and Boonesborough.

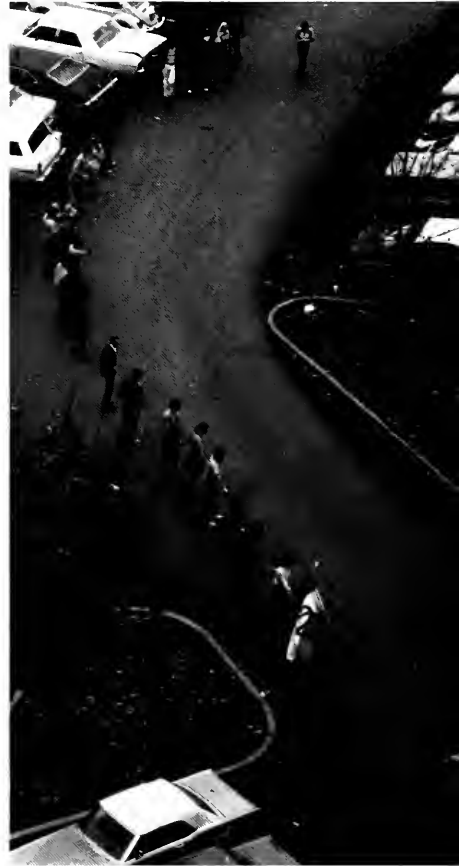

Eastern's traditional purpose as a teacher preparation institution was recalled by the reconstruction of a one-room school house.

Encirclement And Franklin Highlight Bicentennial Year

Some 1,500 to 2,000 Eastern students joined hands to encircle the University campus on ROTC Day, November 8. This was to "demonstrate the strength and unity of the University Community and its interest in the nation's bicentennial." The idea of the project originated with American Bicentennial Commissions idea of a hand-to-hand of citizens stretching from Maine to California. The project Encirclement was concluded with the singing of "America the Beautiful".

"A Historical Evening of Music, Song and Dance from Colonial America" held in Brock Auditorium was hosted by Dr. Benjamin Franklin (portrayed by Douglas Wing) of Philadelphia. Ben Franklin and "The Bicentennial Ensemble" traced the historical events which led to the Battle of Trenton. The final years of the war for American independence including the signing of our constitution were shown through dramatic music, song and dance. The music played during the re-enactments of some of the more dramatic instances helped to bring the performance to life.

"GIVE 'EM HELL HARRY!"

In honor of the nation's bicentennial celebration, President Harry Truman returned to life briefly in September for a special guest appearance at Hiram Brock Auditorium. Actor Ed Nelson played the challenging role of Truman in "Give 'Em Hell Harry!"

"Give 'Em Hell Harry!," a play by Samuel Gallu, based upon the life and times of President Harry S. Truman, was directed by Peter H. Hunt.

As President Truman in the play, Nelson virtually lived the part. He enjoyed conversations with invisible politicians, addressed commentaries to the audience, and carried on a running monologue with himself.

Truman's topics of discussion included everything from his daughter Margaret's piano playing, to his first meeting with Joseph Stalin at Potsdam. He described his reasons for dropping the atomic bomb to the ghost of F.D.R. who came to visit him. He referred to his acquired presidency as his "accidency." In regards to criticism of his administration, he said, "I just do the very best with what I do."

Truman made a courageous speech in the Senate during his first term, in which he decreed, "The financial control of this country is in the hands of so very few!"

In discussing the pros and cons of being president, he commented that, "a fellow could get rich in this job if he wanted." Then he went on to say, "There's no way a man can get rich in politics unless he's a crook."

Hunger in Asia, problems in Israel, and the degradation of blacks, were subjects which Truman's wisdom and wit took the time upon which to reflect. The problems which raged during the Truman administration came back to the audience with the stinging realization that few things have changed, just the people. In a subtle reference to "that Senator from California," Truman said, "Phone bugging will never happen in this country unless we have a liar in public office." In a more blatant reference, he said, "Nixon lies out of both sides of his mouth."

One of his final remarks, but not least important, was "Young people have to keep stirred up. College kids think they know everything . . . It's what you learn AFTER you know it all, that counts."

Harry S Truman, as portrayed by Ed Nelson, depicts the trials and tribulations of his administration

Chapin Launches Concerts

Harry Chapin, in the first concert of the season, performed with a naturalness rarely seen in professional concert tours. Chapin joked, sang, and philosophized for nearly four hours, extending his normal concert time.

For what was his second visit to E.K.U. Chapin had this to say, "I always seem to have a good time at Eastern. A concert is a communication between two entities: an audience and a performer. College audiences are more astute and seem better able to understand my type of music."

When asked to define what his type of music was, Chapin answered simply, "Chapin music." According to the 1973 Billboard Trendsetter award, "Chapin has devised a storytelling style of songwriting with a narrative impact rare to popular music."

According to Chapin, the ideas for his storytelling songs are not strictly autobiographical. Although he may not have factually lived the event, he has emotionally experienced it. "In songwriting you can either propagandize or sensationalize so that people are able to relate to situations that they might not normally encounter," explained Chapin.

Band members who shared the stage with Chapin included his two talented brothers Tom and Steve, Doug Walker on lead guitar, John Wallace on bass, Mike Masters on cello, and Howie Fields on drums.

Steve Chapin, a self-described "writer rather than performer," played keyboards for the concert, and presented one of his own members, "Let Time Go Lightly."

Tom Chapin, an ex-All American basketball player from Plattsburg College, appeared individually in the first part of the show. Recognized as the star of the national television show for children, "Make A Wish," Tom also contributed his deadpan humor and downbeat banjo to the rest of the concert.

Transcending the acoustical problems of Alumni Coliseum, highlights from the concert included three songs from Chapin's most recent album, Portrait Gallery, major known "hits" such as "Bananas," and an encore of "Sniper."

When asked what he hoped to accomplish in the future, Chapin ran a careless hand through his hair, flashed his relaxed smile, and quoting himself, said, "At age 32, I'm still pushing 15. It's the going, not the getting there, that's good."

Rock Coliseum

Barry Manilow and the Spinners thrilled a near capacity crowd at one of the most successful concerts held at Eastern this year. Manilow opened the show with familiar hits, highlighted by a medley of TV commercial jingles that were the starting blocks to his career. Manilow accented his performance with bubbles, flashing lights and three female back-up vocalists.

Though Manilow moved the concert into high gear, he didn't overshadow the Spinners, who continued to satisfy Eastern's rock fans with smooth rhythm. The group captured eye as well as ear with perfectly timed movements that complimented their many hits.

The Spinners added a touch of humor to a musically complete program with impersonations of famous rock superstars, including the Marvelettes, Tom Jones, the Supremes, and of course, Elvis.

The Manilow-Spinners concert had something for everyone and was enjoyed by all.

Daniels And Kershaw Offer Diverse Talent

The University Center Board proudly presented the Charlie Daniels Band in concert. The concert was one of the better rock concerts which have been held at Eastern. The Charlie Daniels Band style of music, which is a mixture of country and southern rock and roll was the catalyst for an electrifying evening of music.

Doug Kershaw, a well known fiddler staged a concert which showed his well known expertise as a first-rate musician and singer. The skillful handling of his instrument was evident in all the music he played. Even though his juvenile actions on stage were a great disappointment to the audience, they enjoyed the part of the program that was performed.

Center Board Hosts Gregory And Herman

Dick Gregory, well known comedian, lecturer, author, and philosopher shared some of his feelings on striving for 'human liberation'. Throughout his monologue he stated his driving force in life were his beliefs on the drug problem, the civil rights movement and the more for world peace. The high point of the lecture was when he stated that there was a social revolution going on in America and the thing about the revolution was that it was not black against white but simply right against wrong.

In November, Woody Herman came to campus with his jazz orchestra to present a flowing evening of musical entertainment, including both old and new songs. He and his orchestra's musical expertise flowed from arrangement to arrangement. Herman gave the Eastern students a taste of music from the big band era plus treated them to contemporary sounds arranged in his unique style.

The Sweet Sound Of Applause

*Welcome to the theatre, this profession unique:
Actors are children, playing hide and ego-seek.*

The wonderful world of theatre. But is it as bad as this song from the musical "Applause" really makes it seem?

Perhaps it isn't. Everyone at some time in his life has suppressed the urge to jump on a platform and say, "Hey, look at me!"

But theatre is much more than that final performance. There are many aspects of this magical world which no one really ever sees or hears about.

Many hours of hard work, sweat, and an occasional tear go into four nights of performance. Two days of auditions are only the first step to producing a play. Next comes the six or seven weeks of rehearsal. Add a few "all nighters" by a devoted technical staff and costume crew and the picture is complete.

Opening night produces enough excitement and anticipation to make the work all worthwhile.

Theatre students at Eastern share in this bittersweet satisfaction which helps to make each day a new and learning adventure.

It isn't uncommon to walk through the Campbell Building and witness sights that most people would deem odd indeed. Only here could you run into someone who looks like he just stepped out of an 18th century portrait. But don't worry, it's only a student "wearing" his assignment from Ms. Druesedow's make-up class.

This year has been an especially busy one for the drama department. In celebration of the Bicentennial, the EKV Players presented "An All-American Season". Each play presented this year was written by an American author. Four of the plays were concerned with all different aspects of American life, Dark of the Moon showed the richness of American folklore while Picnic dealt with the realism of 1955.

I Do, I Do was presented by Seniors Debbie Thomas and Phil Tracy in partial fulfillment of the new BFA degree. Debbie and Phil are the first graduates of this program.

An old favorite — The Music Man was produced in April. Dr. Robert Sporre began working on this show in late January. Between January and April, 43 cast members logged hundreds of hours of rehearsal and dance practice. By the end of the year students were exhausted and most of them needed well deserved rests. But, theatre never stops, so neither must the actors and technicians which make it all possible.

For many it was a week or two of vacation and then off to a summer job with the stock company or an outdoor drama. Others just went home, waiting for fall semester to begin, so they could start the cycle once more.

Dark Of The Moon

an evening of love and witchcraft

Top: Flovd Allen (Brian Chic) sings of the problems a country girl has in adjusting to city life Above: The Summer's, Bergens, Burt and Hattie all enjoy the mountain music

Magic, witches, and human love combined to provide an interesting night of entertainment as "Dark of the Moon" opened the 1975-76 theatre season.

Based on the Ballad of Barbara Allen, the play came from a folk song about a mountain girl who loved many men. John, the witch boy, falls in love with Barbara Allen and asks to be made into a human so he can marry her. He is changed into a human with the understanding that Barbara must be faithful to him for one year. When the year is almost over, Barbara is raped during a church revival. As result, Barbara is doomed to die and John must change back to a witch and live his life out on the mountain.

Sophomore Terry Withers, who played John, summarized his role in a simple way, "It was fun to do but at the same time it was a challenge." His attitude was shared with the rest of the cast.

"A different sort of show with different problems," is how drama major Sharon Caudill, Mrs. Summey in the play, stated her feelings. "Because the show did deal particularly with supernatural things it was sometimes hard to get into character. One scene especially difficult was the 'baby scene.' In it Barbara gives birth to a badly deformed child, which is burned by the superstitious midwives who believe it is a witch."

Myra Irvin and Barry Helm, who portrayed the Conjur Woman and Conjur Man were faced with a challenge. Their roles were that of supernatural beings who had evolved from the mountain they lived on. Barry Helm felt his character had "more of an insight into the universe and people." He said, "the development of Conjur Man required a good deal of imagination . . . because I had to deal with the concept of being a thing."

A group of folk singers were added to the play to give it more of a ballad touch. They served as narrators by singing mountain ballads. They also sang the Ballad of Barbara Allen during the show which helped the audience to visualize the action on stage. One of the folk singers, Jackie Hall, sang a song telling of the torments John was going through because of his mystical background. During this song, John was sensuously tempted by the Dark and Fair Witch, who wanted John to leave Barbara and return to them.

An Evening With Chekhov

During the month of November, the Eastern Kentucky Players brought something different to EKV. The Good Doctor was presented as the 1975 Chambre Theatre production.

With the conventions utilized by Chambre Theatre a "theatre of the mind" was created. With the use of symbolic staging, special lighting, and suggestive costumes, audience members were encouraged to participate in their minds with the actual creation of the play.

Based on a collection of short stories by Anton Chekhov, The Good Doctor was able to show "... individuals definitely caught in human circumstances."

Senior John Momini acted as the narrator for the play. Re-creating the character of Chekhov himself, Momini talked to the audience and explained his stories to them before they were presented. He also acted out several of the characters in his stories. Lisa Davis, Jeanne Olsen, Richard Bitsko, and Barry Helm rounded out the remainder of the cast.

Each actor was called upon by

"Chekhov" to participate in the stories as he introduced them. The actors portrayed as many as six different characters as the evening's performance progressed.

Nine stories were done in all. Each story had something different to say about people and the world that Chekhov knew.

The stories ranged from a touching scene involving two elderly people who sang that perhaps it was "Too Late For Happiness" to an amusing episode which involved a father making "An Arrangement" with a prostitute to help further his son's "education".

This evening with Anton Chekhov passed too quickly for most of the audience. The Good Doctor brought to Gifford Theatre a different kind of creative magic that is rarely seen here at Eastern.

“Picnic” Adds To All American Season

The Eastern Players brought a touch of realism to the stage with their February production of Picnic.

This Pulitzer Prize winning play revolved around the middle class Owens family. The entire play took place in their back yard and the action revolved around a Labor Day picnic.

With the aid of a realistic setting, period costumes, and suggestive lighting and music, the play captured the problems and frustrations found in the lives of the characters.

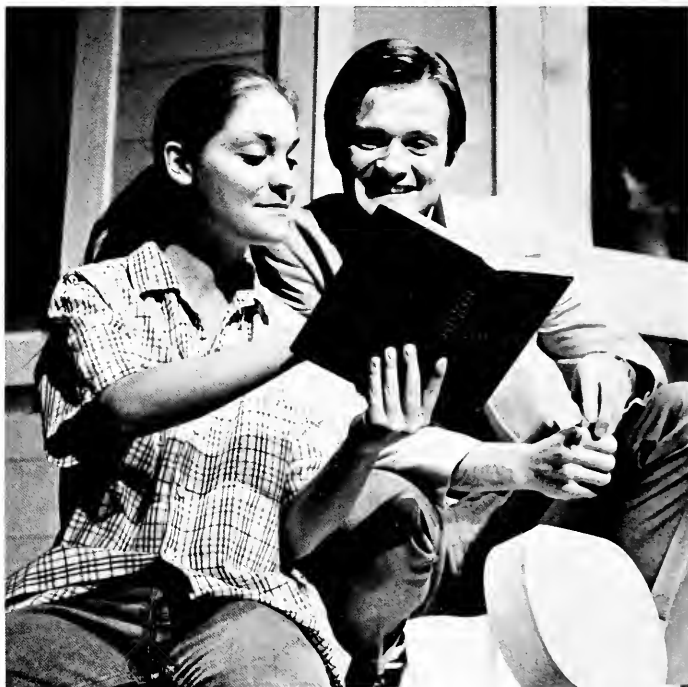

A sense of sexual prowess was felt throughout the play. When vagabond Hal Carter came to town, an immediate attraction was sensed between him and Madge Owens. Complications and conflicts soon arose between Hal and his old college friend Allen Seymore.

The play ended with Madge leaving her family and friends to follow after Hal. With her parting, Madge left her mother with a bit of wisdom. Although her mother is opposed to her action, Madge justified it by saying that perhaps, “. . . you don't love him because he's perfect.”

Picnic ended with a small sense of loss. Audience members felt that perhaps the play should have a happier ending. But they were also left with the knowledge that tomorrow is another day and that perhaps it will be better.

Realistic drama — perhaps not pretty, but truthful indeed.

Christmas 1975 At Eastern

Christmas at Eastern was celebrated in many ways. After returning from Thanksgiving break, students began busying themselves with the job of decorating their dorm rooms and windows. The traditional performance of Handel's "Messiah" and the 46th Hanging of the Greens, accompanied by parties sponsored by Interdorm intensified student's enthusiasm. Christmas trees and color lights were found throughout the campus and students began to get caught up in the Christmas spirit.

Colorful Christmas decorations appeared all over campus to herald the upcoming holiday.

The 46th annual Hanging of the Greens ushered in the holiday season.

Students Frolic In The Snow

Waking one morning to a world suddenly turned white, students don their heavy coats and boots for the previously enjoyable walk to class. The cold weather and wet conditions didn't dampen the spirits of those students who relish the thoughts of playing in the snow, while the more conservative students enjoyed the snow covered activities from afar.

While the first snowfall is enjoyed by all, each following snowfall is considered merely a prelude for the coming spring.

Students Find Need To Work

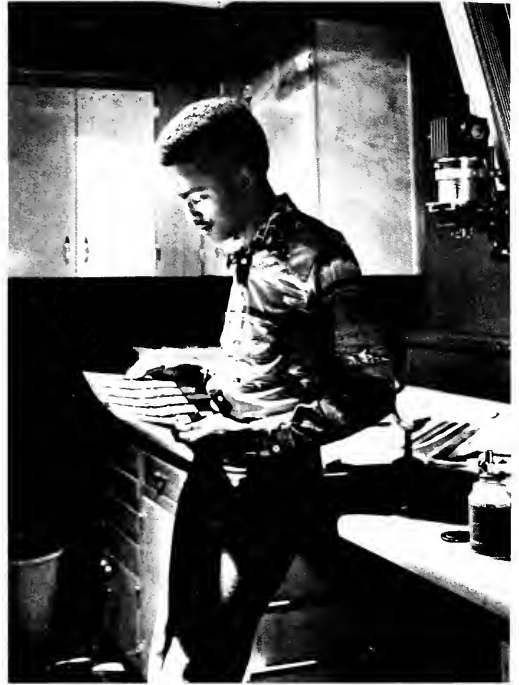

In today's economic pinch, many students are faced with prospect of working while attending school. Eastern students turn both on and off campus to find jobs that will aid with financial problems. Qualified students enjoy the benefits of the Work Study program. The many food chains found on the by-pass are other sources of employment for Eastern students. Students find their college jobs held in establishing them in the job market of tomorrow.

Students Enjoy Free Time

For many students, college presents for the first time complete personal choice in how to spend leisure time. For Eastern students, the choices were wide. Any numbers of athletic activities were available. Informal gatherings often provided the best opportunity for discussing the day's problems and accomplishments. Some students chose to volunteer their services to student government, clubs or organizations, providing community services or working on student publications. A favorite of many students was to spend leisure time in trips to downtown for dancing and fun, as the packed bars on Thursday night proved. Of course, the most popular activity the next day would be catching up on sleep.

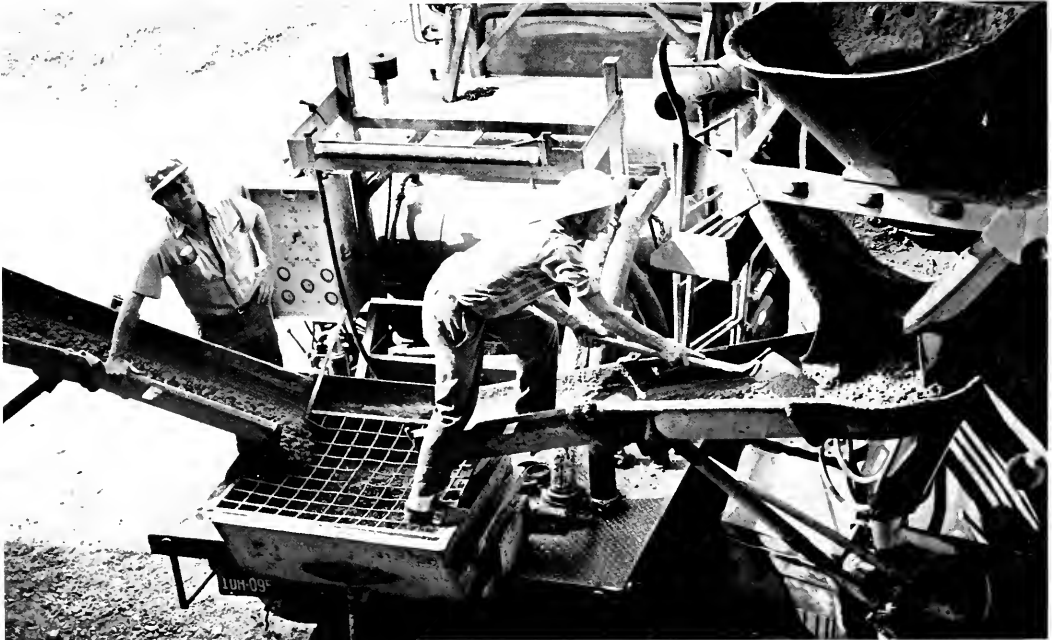

New Nursing

Due to the great inflation of Eastern's nursing program, it was necessary to begin construction on a new Health Education and Services Building. Within the past ten years the enrollment in the allied health programs have boosted from twenty-five students to fifteen hundred.

In addition to nursing, the three million dollar building will house environmental health and other allied health programs. It has been named for Dr. John D. Rowlett, EKU vice president for academic affairs. The cornerstone ceremony was performed Homecoming Day. Completion of the three-story building is expected to be fulfilled by fall of 1976.

Title IX And Women Come To Eastern

"No person in the United States shall, on the basis of sex, be excluded from participation in, or denied benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any education program or activity receiving Federal financial assistance . . ."

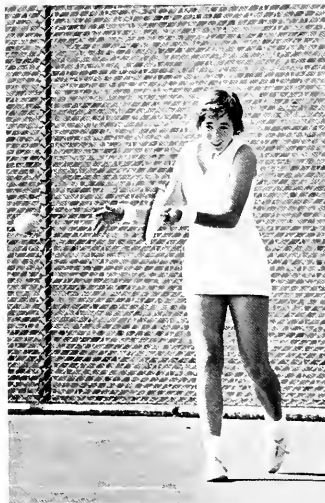

With that simple declaration from the Educational Amendments of 1972, more commonly known as Title IX, women's sports at EKU continued its moves as a leader in educational facilities between men and women.

Another result of the changing attitudes towards women at Eastern could have been the election of Angie Taylor as the first woman student regent in the century of the school's history.

The mark of growing women's awareness did not pass over Eastern, as the positive adoption of Title IX and Angie's accomplishments proved.

Ebony Queen Crowned

Seven contestants vied for the honors in the sixth annual Miss Ebony Pageant held in Model Auditorium January 31. Alpha Kappa Alpha sponsored the Pageant in which Gloria Edwards, a freshman sponsored by the Black Student Union was chosen to reign as Miss Ebony 1976. As winner, Miss Edwards was automatically advanced to participate in the preliminaries of the Miss Eastern Pageant.

The theme of the pageant was "Ebony Affairs", accented by the decorations and presentations of the contestants. Trophies were awarded for first, second, and third places, as well as Miss Congeniality. Contestants were judged on poise, intelligence, charm, charisma and talent by a panel of five.

President Martin Announces Retirement

The end of the Martin Era, sixteen years of unprecedented growth and development at Eastern, was signalled April 3, 1976, when Dr. Robert R. Martin asked the Board of Regents to approve his retirement effective September 30.

Dr. Martin's request for retirement came as a surprise to the Regents, who only last year granted him a four-year contract that extended through June of 1979.

In a prepared statement issued to the Regents, Dr. Martin said, "Eastern Kentucky University is a young, dynamic, developing institution that needs mature, experienced and vigorous administration to guide its continued development for the next challenging decade. After a very close connection with the institution for over the last twenty years (sixteen as president) I do not believe that I have the vigor, or at age sixty-five, the expectancy of time to give it the direction that it needs."

Dr. Martin continued in his statement to say that the six month period before his effective retirement was generally recognized as the optimum length of time for an institution to identify its next president.

The motion to accept Dr. Martin's request was made by Regent Henry Stratton, Pikeville, who said "Being conscious of what this institution was when he came here, and what it has become today, I regretfully move that we accept Dr. Martin's request for retirement."

Mr. Stratton later moved that the Board Chairman, Mr. Robert B. Begley, appoint a six regent search committee (to include the chairman) which would receive input from elected student and faculty representatives in the quest for a new president.

A native of Lincoln County, Dr. Martin has led the administration of Eastern since 1960.

The University, during this period, has increased its enrollment five times, and has added some $117 million in buildings and other facilities, including the Public Service and Special Programs building just underway. But, more significant has been the proliferation of major fields of students at the undergraduate and graduate levels, where program majors have been increased nearly ten-fold from the 26 available in 1959.

Dr. Martin requests that the Board of Regents approve his retirement at the historic April 3, 1976 meeting.

An early spring brought its usual characteristics of fragrant aromas, bright colors, warm weather and rain.

Spring Colors Revitalize Campus Colors

After the drabness of winter gray, the delicate flamboyance of spring color is one of the most welcome sights to the students eyes. Eastern's ravine was one of the most perfect places for students to sit back and admire the new brightness of the spring season. The new color brought with it the promise of long days and warm nights. It was part of the re-birth of everything in nature. Gentle whites, pinks and yellows blossomed all over campus adding a sense of uplift after winter. The grass seemed to be greener and even the sky took on a bluer hue. Perhaps the color appeared so intense because it was such a welcome contrast to winter's harshness, but the variety and beauty of spring color on Eastern's campus overwhelmed all those who stopped long enough to notice it.

Warm weather and rain were mixed in the proper proportions to produce colorful flowers.

Spring Fever Strikes Campus

With the advent of an unusually warm February, the campus sprouted an early abundance of color as many students took advantage of the unseasonable temperatures and sunshine to relax and study in the warm climate.

The ravine became heavily populated with students but this was not the only place that was affected. All throughout the campus were signs of the end of winter. Many organizations held early practices for their intramural softball games, tennis nets were put up, frisbees were brought out of the closets. Many students were sighted spending their leisure hours on the quadrangle by the University Center with the main topic being Florida and spring break.

Graduation Finishes Four Years of Study

While marking the beginning of a new life, graduation marked the end of many years of study for 1900 seniors. Some of the graduates entered waiting positions, while others hoped to attain a higher degree of education. Still, graduation was both a sad and happy time. It meant taking pensive looks into the future and saying good-bye to fellow students, but it also said to the graduate, "You are finally on your own. Make the best of your life".

Graduation is the culmination of four long years of hard work, and careful preparations are made to insure that everything is perfect for the proud moment when you receive your diploma

Family and friends share in the anxious moments of preparation before the graduation ceremony.

Eastern Netmen Participate In NCAA Playoffs

The Eastern Kentucky University tennis team coached by Tom Higgins completed another year of tennis with a record of 10 wins and 12 losses.

Outstanding achievements by individual players were accomplished by Joe Shaheen and Guenter Bergmann who represented Eastern in the NCAA Division I Playoffs held at Pan American University in Corpus Christi, Texas in June.

Great Expectations

Football 1975 began with a different spirit than in previous years. Abounding with confidence, the Colonels had great expectations for the upcoming season when spring practice ended in April.

Returning 40 lettermen from the 1974 OVC Championship team, pre-season polls selected Eastern to repeat as conference champions. Visions of glory were prevalent as Coach Roy Kidd's powerful running attack was expected to rush the Colonels to a Grantland Rice Bowl invitation and a NCAA Tourney bid. A long absent spirit swept Eastern's fans. Students, alumni and residents of Richmond were ready to back the team in conquering its dream. But as often happens, exciting dreams give way to depressing reality.

Opening the season against Wisconsin-Oshkosh, EKU unleashed a devastating offensive attack amassing 598 total yards. On the first play from scrimmage fullback Hal Emerson electrified the 11,100 fans at Hanger Field with a 95-yard touchdown run. Early in the second quarter, Eastern's 1974 All-American running back Everett Talbert suffered an ankle injury that, unknown at that time, would end his chances to repeat that honor. Ernie House, chosen OVC offensive player of the week, passed for 190 yards in directing Eastern's victory over Wisconsin-Oshkosh 42-7.

The University of Dayton visited Eastern for the second contest of the season. The Colonels set a record by intercepting six Dayton passes. After a slow first half, both teams buckled down for an eventful second half with Eastern emerging overtop Dayton 30-24.

Traveling to Chattanooga, Tennessee, the Colonels faced an experienced UTC defense. Allowed only 68 rushing yards in the first half, Eastern entered the locker room trailing 7-3. After a UTC field goal in the third quarter, Eastern responded with a mid-fourth quarter touchdown drive covering 64 yards in 11 plays ending with Talbert's three yard dive. Earl Cody's conversion resulted in an Eastern Kentucky and University of Tennessee at Chattanooga tie at 10-10.

Three Victories Build Momentum

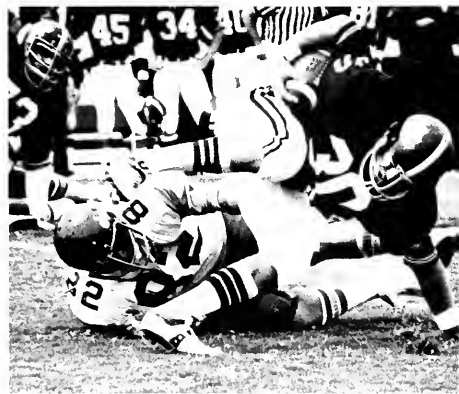

Eastern opened Ohio Valley Conference competition in Johnson City, Tennessee against a much improved East Tennessee State team. Coming from a disappointing tie, the Colonels' defense stopped the Buccaneers' first offensive series. On the punt, right tackle Vic Smith blocked the kick in the end zone resulting in a safety for Eastern. Committing a costly error, a second quarter Eastern fumble resulted in seven points for ETSU. Second half action proved more to Eastern's favor. With 1:37 remaining in the third quarter, Elmo Boyd scampered 63 yards on a screen pass from Ernie House for an EKU score. OVC defensive player of the week, Junior Hardin, helped Eastern hold ETSU scoreless in the final quarter. Two touchdown rushes by Hal Emerson propelled Eastern's comeback victory over East Tennessee State University 21-14.

Eastern returned to Kentucky after two less than spectacular performances down South. Regrouping during the week of practice, the Colonels were determined to improve their overall performance in the first home OVC contest. And that they did. Releasing an attack on Austin Peay that could not be stopped, Ernie House passed for 166 yards and four touchdowns, tying a school record. Touchdown receptions were made by Elmo Boyd and John Revere, each with two. 15,800 inspired Band Day fans were present to watch the Eastern Colonels romp over Austin Peay 49-0.

Using a strong passing attack to stretch their record to 4-0-1, Eastern went to the ground against their next opponent, Middle Tennessee. Running backs Scott McCallister and Hal Emerson were chosen co-OVC players of the week, rushing for 82 and 131 yards respectively in the first half. A strong defensive battle followed in the second half resulting in an Eastern defeat of Middle Tennessee State University 34-24.

THE SHOWDOWN

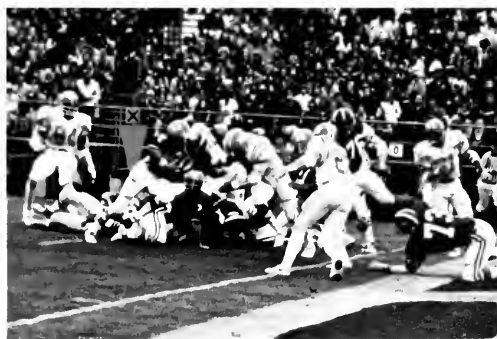

Described as the OVC and NCAA Division II Contest of The Year, the Eastern clash with Western matched the offensive and defensive powerhouses of the conference. The Colonel's led the OVC in the three offensive categories of total yards, rushing yards, and scoring while the Hill-toppers led these same categories in defense. 24,200 spirited Homecoming day fans crowded Hanger Field to watch Kentucky's most fierce rivalry. Tied for first place, both teams placed their undefeated seasons on the line in Division II's Blue-grass showdown.

Western was the first to reach paydirt.

Receiving the opening kickoff, the Hill-toppers scored on their first possession. Eastern retaliated with a touchdown drive covering sixty-eight yards in eight plays. Scott McCallister scored on a five yard run, tying the score at 7-7. Eastern students displayed a vivacious spirit absent in previous games by vocally supporting both the offensive and defensive units. The Colonels were able to force two Hill-topper fumbles but unable to capitalize on the errors. However, in the second quarter Fred Young intercepted a pass setting up a 25 yard field goal by Senior Earl Cody. Six minutes later Cody booted another three pointer from 27 yards out giving EKU a 13-7 halftime lead.

The hard hitting battle continued in the second half. Allowing Western only 18 yards rushing after intermission, the Colonel's defensive unit gave a commendable performance. Western's only scoring threat ended when Anthony Miller blocked a WKU pass in the endzone. Both Miller and Junior Hardin, who spearheaded the defensive line's superb attack, were chosen OVC players of the week. Elated fans felt the OVC crown and post season play were inevitable after Eastern's Homecoming victory over Western, 13-7.

Promoted to second in the AP polls, Eastern did not retain that ranking for long. Traveling to Murray for the next game, conditions were present for an upset. The Western game had drained the Colonels emotionally and they failed to "get up" for this conference game. Also, the depth chart was shallow as EKU suffered many injuries in the hard fought contest with the Hilltoppers.

The Racers were quick to attack the vulnerable conference leaders by scoring twice in the first quarter. Eastern's only score of the game came with three seconds remaining in the half on a 22 yard pass from Ernie House to Elmo Boyd. Murray scored again early after intermission expanding their victory margin. The impotent Colonels collected only 141 offensive yards in Eastern's demoralizing loss to Murray State 26-7.

The seasons home finale pitted Eastern against Tennessee Tech. Hoping to bounce back, the EKU efforts to post another victory proved futile. Only 14,000 spirit-lacking fans turned out for the last game. After a scoreless first quarter, an Earl Cody field goal placed Eastern in front. However, two Golden Eagle touchdowns put the Colonels behind to stay. The opportunity for a post season invitation slipped away when Eastern lost to Tennessee Tech 14-7.

Eighth Victories Tie School Mark

A crestfallen Eastern team traveled to Ohio for the next contest with Ashland College. Playing more to their capabilities than in the previous two games, the Colonels had an outstanding day offensively. Freshman Stan Mitchell was instrumental in the ground game collecting 252 of Eastern's 423 yards rushing. This achievement set a new individual record and Mitchell was named OVC offensive player of the week. Bouncing to a 28-0 lead in the first quarter, EKV amassed its highest point total of the season in Eastern's shellacking of Ashland College 50-36.

The season's final gridiron battle matched the Colonels with Morehead. Eastern capitalized on a fumble and a pass interception return of 38 yards by Anthony Miller to score twice in the first half. The Eagles were unable to overcome Eastern's defense and managed only one touchdown in the fourth quarter. A field goal by Earl Cody completed the scoring in the Eastern win over Morehead State 17-9.

Looking back on the 1975 season resulted in mixed emotions. Eastern received no playoff invitation thus shattering many expectations held earlier in the year; but it was far from a disappointing season. Eight victories tied the school record and the thrilling win over cross-state rival Western, eventual Division II runner-up, will stand out as one of Eastern's greatest football victories of all time.

Colonels Experience Year Of Streaks

The 1975-76 basketball season turned out to be a year of streaks for coach Bob Mulcahy's Colonels.

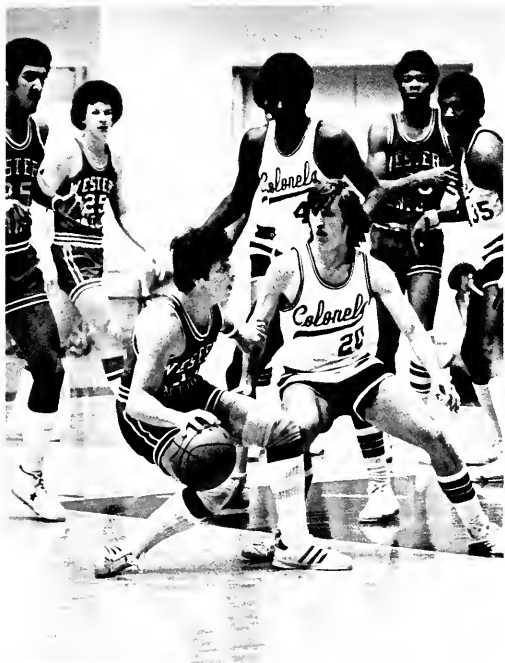

During the season, Eastern had two three-game winning streaks and one stretch in December and January where the team won four out of five contests. Unfortunately for the Colonels, these streaks worked both ways. EKU began the year with four straight losses and suffered two such stretches. Eastern had other loss strings of two and three games during the year.

Eastern finished the regular season with a 10-14 record and 6-8 mark in the Ohio Valley Conference, finishing in a tie for fifth place in the final league standings. The Colonels were defeated in the OVC Playoffs by Morehead State, 75-64.

The Colonels were paced by 6-4 senior Carl Brown who averaged 18.6 points per game. He had regular season single game highs for Eastern in points (31 vs. Murray State), field goals made (14, vs. Murray State) and free throws (nine vs. Tennessee Tech). Brown scored 1,592 points in his four-year career at Eastern, pushing him past first-place Eddie Bodkin.

Injury Hampers Colonel Fortunes

Eastern's other senior, reserve forward Jimmy Segar, was also a double-figure scorer for the Colonels this year. Segar, who started but two games during the season, averaged 11.8 on the season and scored more than 20 points on four occasions.

Illness and injury played a role in the Colonels' poor start at the beginning of the year. Sophomore forward Mike Oliver was bothered by a breathing ailment and played only sparingly through the first half of the schedule, while starting forward Darryl Young, also a sophomore, played the first few games with a sprained hand.

Impressive Wins Brighten February Schedule

Injuries also hit Eastern's backcourt. A hand injury forced sophomore guard Denny Fugate to miss the first four games of the season, while 5-9 guard Tyrone "Too Small" Jones did not play after the Morehead game.

Perhaps, Eastern's most impressive set of wins came in Oklahoma City, Okla., where Eastern finished third in the nation's oldest collegiate holiday basketball tournament, the 40th annual All-College Tourney. The Colonels defeated Oklahoma City University (74-62), lost to eventual tourney champ Long Island (87-78) and beat Utah State (76-69) in the consolation game. Eastern also had a hot streak in early February when, in three consecutive home appearances, downed Marshall (104-78), league-leading Austin Peay (86-85) and Murray State (84-76).

Coach Mulcahy ended his coaching career by resigning his position, with six games remaining in his third season as head coach of the basketball Colonels.

A much improved men's gymnastics squad, coached by Dr. Gerald Calkin, competed this year against a line up of the toughest opponents ever faced by the team. Varsity Rifle Shooters Surpass Previous Record

Eastern's varsity rifle team ended its season with a 10-2 overall record, surpassing previous records. Firing in various invitationals they constantly placed in the foreground and in the conference placed third behind Murray and Western. Highlights of the year included a combined score of 1119 out of 1200 fired in the sectionals by Gyurik, James, Mitchell and McCann which insured them a place in the top ten teams in the nation.

The ROTC team, sporting a record of 10-1, brought home two first place trophies, both won at invitationals. In the sectional, the first team score of 1119 helped place the team in the top five ROTC teams in the nation.

Swimming Eels Acquire New Coach

The Eastern Kentucky University Swimming Eels overcame the obstacle of having an extremely young and inexperienced team by having a successful season of close finishes in various relays and invitationals. During the course of the season, Dan Lichty, head coach, and Ron Holihan, assistant coach, demonstrated their coaching ability and made their first year in the positions very rewarding ones. The team was led by outstanding performances from seniors Terry Stoddard, captain, Tom Linneweber and Tom Houchin in swimming competition and freshman Gail Palmieri in diving competition.

The team finished well in such combined meets at the Morris Harvey Relays and the University of Tennessee Relays. The Eels had individual meet victories with schools such as University of Louisville and Morehead State.

Intramurals Vital In Student Life

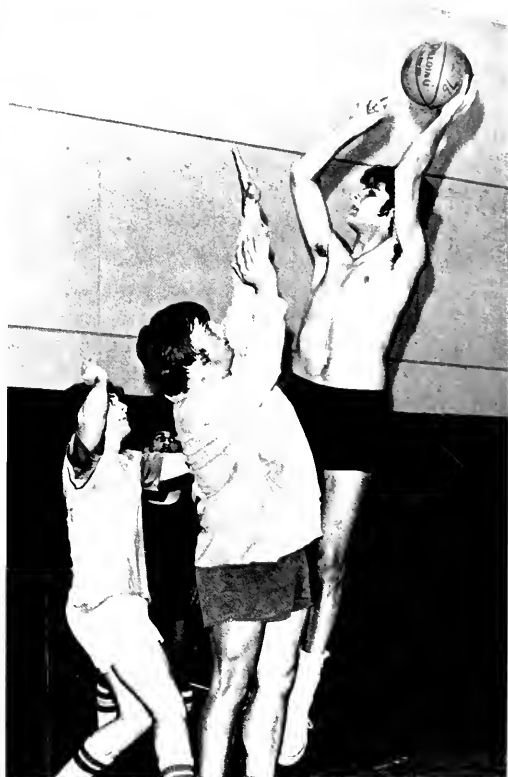

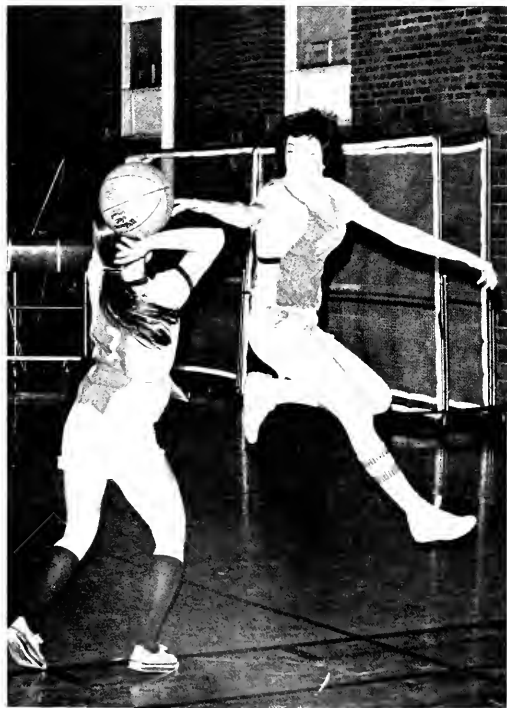

Intramural athletics posted another successful season of competition this year. Women Harriers Break EKU Mile Record

The EKU women's track and field team, coached by Sandy Martin, experienced a season of rebuilding. The team was primarily composed of freshmen and sophomores which gave them a bright outlook for future seasons at EKU.

Outstanding performers on the team were Elsie Davenport, team hurpler, and Jenny Utz who represented Eastern when she ran the 880 yard run in national competition. The team broke a school record when the mile relay team of Krawic, Davis, McGill and Davenport ran the mile relay in 4:20.1 at the University of Tennessee meet.

Women Netters Capture Fifth Place In KWIC

Eastern's women's tennis team ended its season with an overall record of seven wins and three losses. This was the seventh consecutive winning season for the Colonels coached by Martha Mullins.

The team participated in the Kentucky Hard Court Championships at Murray in September. They also played in the Kentucky Women's Intercollegiate Conference Championships where they finished fifth. Outstanding performances were given throughout the year by Melissa Miller and Nancy Edge who advanced to the doubles finals in the KWIC.

Volleyball Team Competes Nationally

A determined women's volleyball team recorded a fourth KWIC state title and third Region II AIAW title. The team traveled to the National AIAW Championship for a third time where they continued to improve their national performance. An overall 29-11 record marked a season of challenge and frustration. For the second consecutive year the team lost four seniors, which left a young experimental team awaiting its turn of continuing a tradition of quality with EKV volleyball.

The Eastern Kentucky University Women's Basketball team led by first year coach Miss Shirley Duncan, finished the regular season play with an impressive 14-2 record and won its 5th straight state title. The Lady Colonels were paced this year by senior Bernie Kok who had an outstanding year both shooting and on the boards. Also contributing significantly to the lineup were Peggy Gay, Emma Salisbury, Gayle Freshwater and Cindy Lundberg.

The season started with three straight wins before a loss to Ohio State. The Lady Colonels then pulled themselves together again and ran a streak of nine straight victories, the high point of the season being the defeat of twelfth ranked Indiana 82-65.

The team won the Bellarmine Invitational tournament held in Louisville by defeating the University of Louisville and UK to win the championship. In addition to winning the championship, Eastern had three of the five members of the all tournament team — Peggy Gay, Gayle Freshwater and Emma Salisbury.

Colonels Take Second In League Playoffs

The Eastern Kentucky University Baseball Colonels completed another fine season again receiving outstanding performances from many of the team's members. Batting averages of .300 or higher were achieved by Darryl Weaver, Dennis Brant, Mike Gentry, Ray Spennilla, Dave Ball and John Revere. Carroll Dedicates LEN Complex

Julian M. Carroll became governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky in December, 1974, when Governor Wendell Ford earned a seat in the United States Senate, and as a result of the 1975 gubernatorial election in November. Governor Carroll rose to chief state executive in his own right. A native of Paducah, Governor Carroll formerly served as Speaker of the House and visited EKU frequently.

He delivered the dedication address for EKU's new $6.5 million Law Enforcement, Fire Science and Traffic Safety Center August 7, calling for every Kentuckian to "join in the conquest of crime." He said the state was fortunate to "dedicate these facilities at a time when they are so needed." Governor Carroll commended Eastern, the law enforcement staff and the taxpayers for their willingness to work for the project.

Board Approves Budget Request

As the statutory governing and policy-making body of the University, the Board of Regents approved an $82.6 million biennial budget request for submission to the Council on Public Higher Education and seated its first woman member, student regent, Angela Taylor.

The board also approved several degree programs options including offerings in the new Department of Fire Science and Control. It granted a portion of University property to the city of Richmond and Madison County for construction of an ambulance service building, and named a planned indoor tennis facility for Greg Adams, a local athlete and son of two staff members who was paralyzed in a football accident in the spring of 1975.

The student housing shortage that prevailed in the fall semester drew heavy consideration from the Regents, who approved the conversion of space in two dormitories to ease the problem after high cost factors ruled out the construction of a new residence hall.

Miss Taylor, a senior major in the Department of School and Public Health, was sworn in as the board's eighth student regent, and the first woman on the board in EKV's 70 year history.

Robert B. Begley, Richmond, and Gerald S. May, Stanford, continued to serve as chairman and vice chairman of the Board, respectively. The Board consisted of eight members appointed to four-year terms by the Governor, one faculty regent elected to a three-year term and one student regent holding a one-year elected post.

Below: President Robert R. Martin at a recent Board of Regents meeting discusses the $82.6 million biennial budget request.

Eastern Pursues "Vision Of Greatness"

As President Robert R. Martin ended a decade-and-a-half as Eastern's sixth chief executive this fall he issued 24-page report of his first 15 years' tenure, entitled In Pursuit of a Vision.

The report title referred to Dr. Martin's 1960 inaugural address in which he outlined imperatives that the institution must realize in order to attain a "Vision of Greatness". Retrospect reveals that he was an accurate prophet as he used these words to chart Eastern's course since 1960.

"Even while realizing that Eastern is becoming more and more a multi-purpose institution, we must not lose sight of or neglect our historic mission of training teachers for the schools of America. The American dream begins in the classroom. The teacher-training institutions of this nation have a tremendous responsibility . . .

"We must continue to develop here an intellectual community. This can only be done as we develop a faculty that is noted for its scholarship, coming from a wide and varied background of training in the great institutions of this nation . . .

"We must give constant attention to see that our curriculum is such as to give students the basic concepts in their field of knowledge and the special techniques needed for the mystery of their field . . .

"We must inspire and motivate each individual student, both through superior teaching and counseling . . .

"We must help each student to realize that individual liberty and freedom can only come through the acceptance of rules of behavior and codes of law . . .

"We must expand our facilities in order that we may take care of, in an adequate way, our reasonable portion of the young Kentuckians and the young Americans who will knock on these doors for admission . . .

"As we cope with the problem of ever-increasing numbers, we must realize that there is no alternative to becoming more inventive, creative, and imaginative in our use of the human and material resources which are available . . .

"We must provide here on campus a place of beauty for gracious and stimulating living. Our building should directly and indirectly contribute to the training of the youth who frequent these halls . . .

"When we have accomplished these imperatives, then we shall have developed on this campus a spirit so powerful that it will not let us go. We shall have developed for Eastern a "Vision of Greatness."

Reviewing his years as President of the University, he cited three apparent factors of pre-eminent influence toward its development:

"The tremendous influx of college age young men and women in the 1960's — the result of the post-war baby boom and the rising expectations of Americans for a College Education.

"The ability of this institution to respond positively to the changing demands on higher education;

"And, of paramount and overriding significance, the granting of University status by the Kentucky General Assembly in 1966."

It had been the combination of these factors that brought about the most fundamental changes in the nature of Eastern since it was begun as a normal school in 1906.

The statistics of the fifteen year report dramatically demonstrated advances of the University within each of the areas of imperatives outlined by Dr. Martin. Degree programs and options multiplied nearly tenfold to the more than 200 currently available; size and quality of the faculty improved of equal significance; and expansion of the physical plant from one with a $7 million value to a current worth of more than $124 million.

In his report, Dr. Martin summarized and looked toward the future with these words:

"Today, Eastern Kentucky University stands as a multi-purpose, regional university bearing little resemblance to the Eastern Kentucky State College of 1960. A majority of our students are enrolled in majors that were not available on the campus fifteen years ago. Thirty per cent of our total enrollment today is in two "new" and practical areas, allied health and law enforcement, both begun after 1965. Some 1,863 students are enrolled in non-traditional, two-year associate degree programs, reflecting the University's responsiveness and determination to serve in unique and needed ways.

"These non-traditional collegiate programs is technical and career education and the widening needs for adult continuing education and re-education constitute the growing edge of the future for this University. We are pledged to meet, within our resources, society's needs in these critical areas.

"The challenges facing higher education in the future, while of a different nature, will be no less demanding and no less critical than those we have just encountered. Eastern will realize a measure of greatness in the years ahead equal to the extent that the University can remain responsive to the needs of the student body and the public.

University Reacts To Impact Of Inflation

The Vice President for Administration, Dr. J. C. Powell, supervised the administrative and fiscal affairs of the University. The emphasis of fiscal affairs during 1975-76 continued to be of a general administrative nature. The impact of inflation was studied in relation to the University's needs and functions. Dr. Powell prepared the internal budget and dealt with the appropriations of state money. The Internal Auditor, the Office of Budget and Planning, and the Division of Safety and Security were also areas under the leadership of Dr. Powell.

Academics Refines Existing Programs

Dr. John Rowlett serves as chief academic officer of the University as the Vice President for Academic Affairs and Research. Acting as Dean of the Faculties, he remained responsible to the President for the coordination of all phases of the instructional program and institutional research. Basic occupational duties included supervision of the preparation of position specifications for instructional staff and administrative personnel connected with instructional activities, making of recommendations to the President concerning staff needs and appointments, promotions, or dismissals for all instructional personnel and administrative personnel related to instruction, preparation of the academic calendar, class schedule, textbook adoption, and the schedule of examinations, and acting as Chairman of the Council of Academic Affairs.

This year he oversaw the establishment of the College of Allied Health and Nursing, the second pre-registration for the fall semester, and a continued refinement and evaluation of existing programs.

Sexton Fills New Vice Presidency

As the result of a recommendation from the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools and of a proposal by President Robert M. Martin to the Board of Regents, the position of Vice President of Public Service and Special Programs emerged. Dr. William Sexton filled the office July 1, 1975. Established as an university-wide organization, it promoted those activities concerning Title Nine of the Association — Special Activities. The Division of Continuing Education, the Division of Special Programs, the Division of Data Processing, and the Division of Television and Radio were placed under operation by the Office of Public Service and Special Programs. The Division of Special Programs received emphasis with the development and coordination of non-credit, short term special activities where University resources were used to assist the community in meeting its needs. With stress shifted from academic to public service, the University community worked with the faculty in the development of the curriculum in the programs. Relating to the needs of the public, short term special activities presented represented areas of computers and banking applications, computers and accounting applications, income property valuation, export opportunities for Kentucky businesses, management development programs, and the role of women in criminal justice.

Below: Exhibiting his expert skills in woodworking, Dr. William Sexton utilizes his hobby in constructing two cradles for a niece and a nephew.

Residence Hall Programs Termed Successful

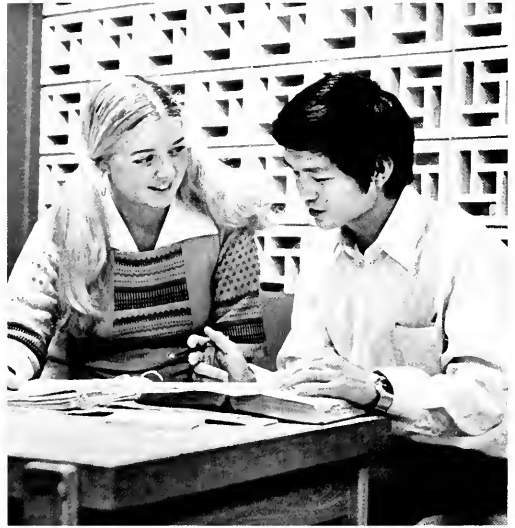

Dr. Thomas D. Myers, Vice President for Student Affairs supervised the establishment of a new Division of Housing, a combination of men, women, and married students' housing. Jack Hutchinson emerged as director of the newly organized office. Under the cooperation of Dr. Calvin Tolar and Ellendale Hall, Career Counseling Seminars offered goal defining help for undecided majors.

Guided by Kelly Stanfield and David Wiles, residence halls sponsored over 200 programs of educational, social, recreational, and cultural natures. Student Tutor Sessions allowed students academic credit in return for tutoring sessions. Chosen from educational honoraries, tutors came to the students coaching in the subject areas of chemistry, mathematics, history, accounting, physiology, biology, and English. The Residence Hall Programs office initiated a Summer Job Information Service to aid students in securing summer work. A list of summer job availabilities was compiled and assistance in completing and mailing applications was offered.

Business Affairs Oversees Renovations

Involved in all phases of the university program whenever financial matters are concerned stands the Office of Business Affairs headed by the Vice President of Business Affairs, Neal Donaldson. Responsible for such areas as accounting and budgetary control, purchases and stores, personnel and institutional services, buildings and grounds, the bursar and controller, golf course operations, the divisions of food service and housing, and the university stores and farms, the Office of Business Affairs provided all business related services necessary for the proper operation of the university.

With an emphasis on its supervision of construction, projects included the renovation of the Cammack and Foster Buildings, the completion of the Law Enforcement, Traffic Safety Center, the remodeling of Keith Hall from a dorm into an academic facility containing faculty offices and the Learning Lab, the enlargement of the Model Lab gymnasium, the addition of beef and swine operations on Meadowbrook Farm, a landscaping project for the Law Enforcement Complex, a campus-wide electrical lighting and sewage expansion, a railroad siding and cold-storage facility at the Donaldson Service Complex, and a firing range project on the Kentucky River.

Contained in a list of anticipated future areas of construction were an indoor tennis court, an addition to the Carter Building, a lodge at Maywoods in Rockcastle County, a maintenance storage building at the Donaldson Service Complex, a parking lot at Telford Hall, and extensive reserVICing of university streets and parking lots. To alleviate the crowded housing situation, Combs and Martin Halls were due renovations to house extra bedrooms.

Public Affairs Projects University's Image

Mr. Donald Feltner, Vice President for Public Affairs is responsible to the President for projecting the University's image and communicating its programs to the varied publics. Mr. Feltner guides the operations of the divisions of Alumni Affairs, Placement, Public Information, and University-School Relations.

The Division of University-School Relations continued to maintain close contact with the high schools of Kentucky, their school administrators, and prospective students, keeping them abreast of the University's programs through school visitations, on-campus functions and open house programs. Supervised through this division, and sponsored by various departments, were such events as summer band camps, Boys' State, music, drama, and speech festivals, workshops, and conferences.

The Division of Placement upgraded its free service to students and alumni, acting as the liaison between prospective employers and employees. College deans and department heads were involved and actively participated in improvements in the placement service leading to strengthened cooperation. Mr. John Vickers played the dual role of Director of Placement and Executive Assistant to the President.

The Director of Public Information, Mr. Doug Whitlock, also served as the publications editor. A news editor, radio and television editor, art editor, and photography editor provided services to both external and internal communication media through news and publications and a variety of other projects.

With alumni totaling 31,000, the Division of Alumni Affairs continued its "Each-One-Recruit-One" program. Alumni received materials describing EKU's academic programs and a request to help communicate the story of Eastern to the public.

Distributed to the news media, institutions of higher education, the legislature, alumni, and faculty was a special issue of the Alumnus Magazine featuring a comprehensive fifteen-year report on the University which provided vital information and comparative figures on the years 1959-60, 1965-66, and 1974-75, and which showed the impact of university status.

The Founders Day activities held March 24 included a ground-breaking program at which Governor Julian Carroll participated, signifying the beginning of construction on the new public service and special programs facility. Earlier in the year, Governor Carroll had participated in the dedication of the Law Enforcement, Fire Science and Traffic Safety Center.

CUC Puts Emphasis on the Individual

Supervising the academic program of four-year students during their freshman and sophomore years, the Central University College was under the chairmanship of Dean Clyde Lewis. With a definite increase in the university's total enrollment, CUC's women's physical education, general social studies, general studies English, and general studies science courses likewise experienced bulging classrolls.

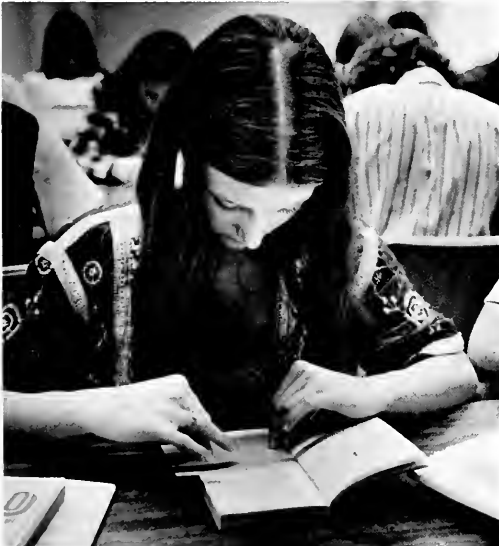

In addition to offering basic, general, and interdisciplinary courses, CUC provided student self-help services, career and scheduling advice, block scheduling, and self-paced labs.

Formally named the Central University College Academic Counseling and Learning Laboratory, ECU's Learning Lab celebrated its seventh anniversary. Its original purpose was to help "save" a percentage of those students who came to college unprepared or unmotivated and who would eventually drop out, unless helped.

Designed to serve primarily students in their first two years of college, one function of the lab was to help minimize the differences of individuals from varied backgrounds with attention given to specific academic or adjustment problems. The lab also served veterans, self-referrals, and teacher-referrals, including sessions for foreign students for whom English was a second language, who needed fluency training. Providing individualized programs tailored to the students' specific needs, diagnostic procedures were employed building background for later course work. Students learned how to learn by developing good study habits including note-taking, listening skills, vocabulary improvements, and test-taking techniques. Mrs. Ann Algier supervised five and one-half full-time faculty members and four graduate assistants. The ECU Learning Lab faced expansion in a move to Keith Hall, the second floor, the second semester.

Learning Lab Enters Seventh Year

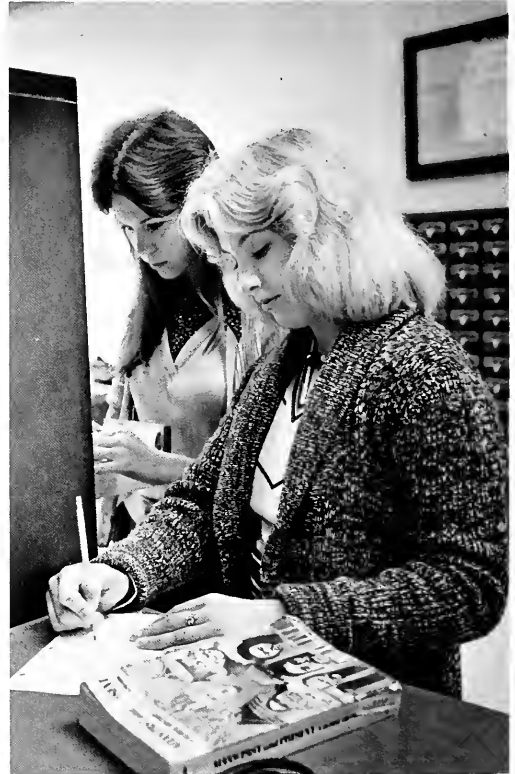

The Career Guidance Program, directed by Dr. Calvin Tolar, offered undecided freshmen a way of determining the type of vocation to which they were best suited. Students were evaluated psychologically and intellectually with the various intelligence, personality, and aptitude tests available. The enrollment in the career planning seminars was limited to fifteen due to the necessity for individual counseling and guidance.

In an effort to integrate classes, the department heads of general studies science, general studies humanities, general social studies, and general studies English implemented block scheduling. The program consisted of 125 first semester freshmen from 600 undecided high school graduates during summer registration. These 125 students were grouped together into five equal sections of 25 students each. Each section was then scheduled together in GSC 100, GSS 142, GSH 124, and GSE 101. The latter, GSE 101, was set mainly for scheduling purposes so as not to conflict with the block classes. The program, as well as easing the transition from high school to college, allowed the student to see things as a whole, rather than in separate parts. The teachers involved benefited by experiencing a closer contact with students, a type of team teaching, and an avoidance of overlap in subject areas.

The General Studies English Department was unique in offering self-paced courses in English giving the student the chance to do review and remedial work, classes open only to foreign students geared to their own needs and skills, and an Honors Program allowing advanced students to study material at an accelerated rate.

CUC increased its emphasis on the individual making available labs, special schedules, classes, and counseling to meet particular needs.

Allied Health Acquires New Structure

The three-story Health Education and Services Building, located at the corner of Kit Carson and Park Drives, will be completed by the beginning of the 1976 fall semester.

The cornerstone ceremony highlighted Homecoming Day, October 25. Designed to house the two-year and four-year nursing programs, the environmental sanitation program, and student health services, the structure was named for Dr. John D. Rowlett, Vice-president for Academic Affairs and Research. He was instrumental in the establishment and growth of nurse-education and allied health programs.

Dr. Tim Lee Carter, Congressman from this district served as the source for the name of the student health services section on the first floor. He aided in the acquirement of $1.3 million in federal funds to pay toward construction costs. As a physician, Congressman Carter retained an interest in health education and services.

The second and third floors will be allocated to the Department of Nursing. The second floor will include general purpose classrooms, conference and work areas, and offices. The third floor will provide a lecture theatre, seminar rooms, and laboratories. Specialized space and facilities will be comprised of a pharmacy, regular and isolation wards, examination and treatment rooms, x-ray and clinical laboratories, a diet kitchen, and an emergency station.

Nursing Attains College Status

July 1, 1975, was recorded in EKU's history as the birthdate of the College of Nursing and Allied Health. Attempting to group various health professions having common needs, interests, and goals, Dr. David Gale emerged as dean of the college and as chairman of a committee responsible for reviewing allied health programs. The committee coordinated the 20 separate degrees offered across campus with an allied health theme. Total enrollment bulged to the 2,000 mark in the fall of 1975.

Mrs. Charlotte Denny, Associate Dean, supervised the nursing department and its two major degrees. Standing as one of the 16 institutions in the nation offering both the two-year and four-year programs, EKU was forced into selective enrollment procedures. The Department of Nursing climbed to enrollment heights of 900 students in the two programs.

Operating a two-year nursing curriculum in cooperation with the city of Pikeville, fulltime EKU faculty taught professional courses while Pikeville College provided the instruction of basic science classes. The 20 students participated in clinicals at the Pikeville Methodist Hospital. This nurse-education program was a part of an eight-county cooperative project conducted to keep nursing students in their home area for clinical experience and work.

Public Demands Medical Assistants

Graduates of the Medical Records Technology Department found job opportunities in various health care settings, hospitals, nursing homes, comprehensive health care units, doctor offices, public health departments, state health departments, and insurance companies. An increased need for medical record students in health care institutions arose with new federal regulations. Sought was a Medical Records Administration degree program, an additional two years of study after completion of the Medical Record Technology program. Patti A. Clay Hospital provided the site for on-the-job training in the medical record department.

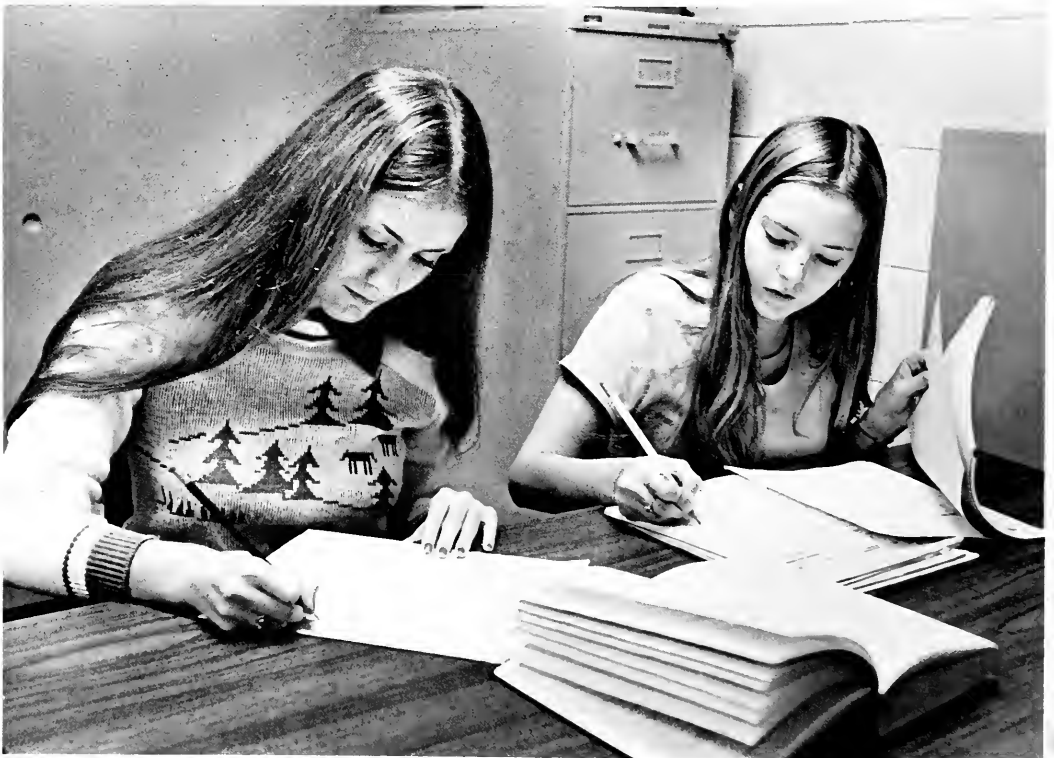

The Medical Assisting and the Medical Record Technology programs combined for a total enrollment of 57. Expected increases were in answer to a public demand for better medical care. The skills learned in the Medical Assisting Technology Program trained students to keep financial records, to physically and mentally prepare a patient for examinations and treatments by the physician, and to perform basic laboratory techniques such as giving blood tests and injections, and scheduling appointments.

Nationally accredited by the American Association of Medical Assistants, graduates of the Medical Assisting Technology Program possessed the eligibility to take the Certification Examination administered by the American Association of Medical Assistants. The obtained certificate established and maintained high professional standards and assured prospective employers that the medical assistant was qualified in his or her field.

The College of Nursing and Allied Health planned further expansions in the areas of Emergency Medical Care and in Occupational Therapy where skills and crafts provided rehabilitative exercises for patients.

Hansson Serves First Term

Dr. Kenneth Hansson completed his first year as Dean of the College of Applied Arts and Technology as the college experienced an overall ten per cent enrollment increase in its home economics, agriculture, and industrial education and technology departments. Due to an emphasized public interest in the environment, nature, and ecology, the horticulture programs in the department of agriculture taught students how to use and to work with their hands. The recently acquired Stateland Farm and the newly initiated Beef Management Curricula expanded dairy operations and trained beef farm operators respectively. Dr. William Householder, with his department's course offerings, strove to destroy the myth that one cannot study agriculture unless he originated from a rural, farmlike setting.

Home Ec Stresses Practical Experiences

Exploring the diversified areas of family living, child development, food service, dietetics, interior design, and clothing, the Home Economics Department worked to increase enrollment in the various areas of specialization. Headed by acting chairman, Miss Willie Moss, the department stressed practical experience for its students. Home management students lived in the Turley House, managing it as a home. Child development majors sponsored a nursery school for young children of students and faculty. Food service administration and dietetic students received field experience in local hospitals, cafeterias, and food service establishments.

Metrication arose as a new area of interest and concern with the purchase of newly published books and measuring instruments for use in the appropriate courses.

Ind. Ed & Tech Plans Simulated Factory

The Department of Industrial Education and Technology under the direction of Dr. Clyde Craft represented three baccalaureate degree and nine associate degree programs. The Industrial Advisory Committee, with members from local industries, conducted graduate study surveys. The surveys showed an increased number of graduates entering supervisory positions. As a result, the core of the industrial technology degree program was revised to emphasize management and supervisory positions. A proposed simulated industry or factory would give students actual management, supervisory, and production experience.

Each of the departments in the College of Applied Arts and Technology proved versatile in continuing to meet the needs of the labor market.

Arts And Sciences Consists Of Varied Areas

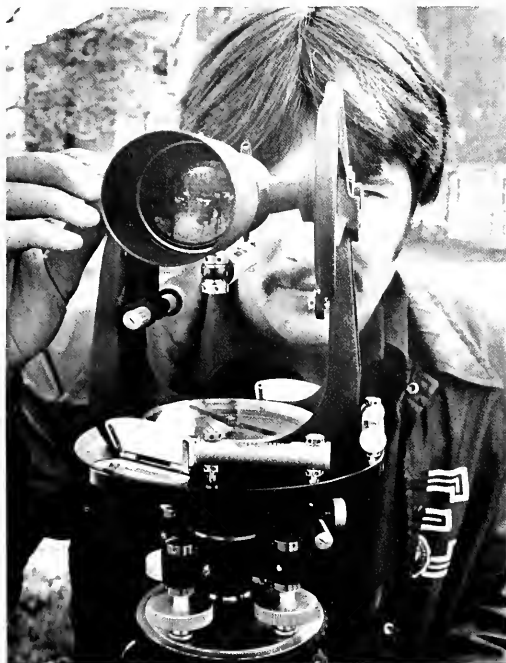

Dean Frederic D. Ogden supervised the 17 varied departments in the College of Arts and Sciences. Maintaining the basic elements of the liberal arts program, new courses and degrees were offered to adapt to new trends taking place in the society in the areas of art, communications, drama, political science, mathematics, and chemistry. To appeal to the student wishing to follow a self proposed program designed from courses offered on campus, the Bachelor of Individualized Studies Degree went into effect under the direction of Associate Dean Glenn Carey. The student planned his own curriculum working in consultation with an advisor. The program was then brought for approval before a review board of six members. Cooperative study programs compiled in department areas where opportunities were available and feasible granted academic award for on-the-job training and experience.

Existing as one of the oldest departments in the University, the Music Department has experienced Dr. George Muns as its chairman for seven years. Involving 300 students and seven graduate students in its classes, 24 fulltime teachers, three teaching graduates, and three part-time teachers executed the department's varying programs. Music Therapy, for use in hospitals, and Music Merchandising were planned as new course offerings. A degree in jazz was also proposed.

Department chairman Dr. Donald C. Haney stated that the number of geology majors enrolled in the College of Arts and Sciences rose significantly, almost doubling last year's figures. The Associate of Arts degree in Geological Engineering entered its second year of implementation, progressing well. Dr. Samuel Leung, Dr. Norman Hester, and two graduate students worked to fulfill a contract with Argonne National Laboratory. They conducted a research project entitled "Water Quality and Reclamation."

English Sponsors Second Annual Conference

Under the guidance of Dr. Joseph R. Schwendeman, Jr., the Department of Geography undertook two major research projects in addition to offering a new service course for non-majors entitled "Orienteering and Navigation" to satisfy the current growing interest in cross-country hiking. The first research project involved faculty members from the geography department and related disciplines along with twenty graduate and undergraduate students. Entitled "Surface Mine Pollution Abatement and Land Use Impact Investigation", this research was directed by Mr. William G. Adams and was funded by the Appalachian Regional Commission. The Bluegrass Area Development District contracted the department to develop a comprehensive plan for the city of Richmond. January marked the beginning of an internship program to provide practical as well as academic experience for geography and planning students. Four faculty members and approximately fifteen graduate and undergraduate students were employed in this second research project headed by Dr. Schwendeman.

Consisting of fifteen full-time teachers and six graduate assistants, the Mathematics Department according to Dr. Bennie R. Lane, chairman, hung in the middle of a transition period from the traditional arithmetic emphasis to a more scientific approach. A new proposed computer science program would allow interested students to receive a degree requiring the completion of thirty hours in computer science courses. To keep abreast of the department's broadening functions, Dr. Lane hoped to change its title to the Mathematical Science Department.

Three new courses received special focus in the English Department under Dr. Kelly Thurman. Taught for the first time, a Black literature class explored a survey of Black American authors. A course in grammar was made available for both majors and non-majors and a course in technical writing enabled varied majors to become adept in preparing specialized reports and forms. Faculty members received special recognition. Dr. Byno Rhodes met with the Kentucky Philological Association as its executive secretary. Dr. William Sutton appeared as a Falkner scholar at an annual Falkner symposium at the University of Mississippi. Dr. John Burkhart journeyed to Stratford-on-Avon for participation in a Shakespearean event. In conjunction with the Foreign Language and Special Education and Rehabilitation Departments, the English Department sponsored a second annual Kentucky Inter-disciplinary Conference on Linguistics in April. Language and linguistic teachers from Kentucky universities and colleges, regional, and national schools attended the weekend conference featuring three internationally known scholars.

The History Department, under the leadership of Dr. George W. Robinson, supplemented the traditional history course studies with two new undergraduate courses open to both majors and non-majors. "Introduction to Museology" informed students of the administration and responsibility of museums, and of the acquisition, preservation, display, and validity of relics. "Public Health through the Ages" followed as the result of the sudden surge of interest in nursing and medical professions.

Communications Add Film, Journalism Labs

Now in its third year, the Communications Department's enrollment increased beyond all expectations, according to chairman, Dr. James S. Harris. The addition of a film lab and journalism lab highlighted the year. A minor in film and a public relations minor were added to the department's curriculum. Courses offered in the minor in film included cinema history, film production, advanced film production, literature and film, and special problems in communication. The public relations minor included news, feature, and broadcast writing, introductions to mass communications, news editing, educational communications, and public relations. The two new programs brought the department's total of minors to four — journalism, broadcasting, film, and public relations. Journalism and broadcasting remained as its two majors.

A Career Day Program was instituted to give prospective students the opportunity to view Eastern, to meet the teachers and students, and to learn about the programs offered.

Dr. Charles Nelson, chairman of the Department of Foreign Languages, noted that the department's enrollment rose drastically in the past two years. This increase was attributed to the facts that more students are becoming interested in learning a second language and that a foreign language can be used to meet the humanities requirement needed to graduate. The department offered courses in French, German, Latin, Portuguese, Russian, Spanish, and Arabic.

Philosophy Proposes New Courses

Chaired by Dr. J. Robert Miller, the Philosophy Department concerned itself with the growing needs of the individual. To meet the needs of two particular groups, the nursing and law enforcement students, two new courses were proposed. "Health and Bio-Medical Ethics" titled the class designed to emphasize the professional conceptual foundations of the nurse. The course, "Justice, Law, and Social Policy", was proposed for the law enforcement student to cover the ethical aspects of the rights of criminals, confidentiality of information, tax policies, distribution of wealth, and business practices.

Enrollment in the Department of Speech and Theatre Arts, chairman Dr. Richard Benson, remained basically stable. Modernization reigned as the department's overall theme. Its name was changed from the Speech and Drama Department to the Department of Speech and Theatre Arts to reflect a more descriptive, contemporary connotation of the department. Speech classes followed the modernization theme in changing its emphasis from rhetorical to interpersonal. Staff additions of a new technical designer and costumer brought creative ideas and imaginations. Offered in congruence with a Bachelor of Arts Speech Degree in Speech Communications and Human Relations was a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree in the Performing Arts, allowing the student one-half music and one-half drama stage experience.

Celebrating its one year location in the Campbell Building, the Art Department, headed by Dr. Daniel Shindelbower, expanded its program offerings due to the increased and improved facilities in the modern building. The sculpture studio, ceramics studio, and metals and jewelry were housed in the basement of the structure. A resale store on the first floor bought art supplies in great quantities to resell to students at reasonable prices. The Fred P. Giles Gallery and general art rooms occupied parts of the second and third floors, respectively. The painting, drawing, design, and printmaking rooms took refuge on the fourth floor.

As a result of the new modern facilities, the department proposed a design program to include illustrative, advertising, corporate, and package design. Additional Bachelor of Fine Arts degree programs were formulated for jewelry and metal, design, and printmaking. Both design and photography courses were offered for the first time.

Physics Investigates UFO's

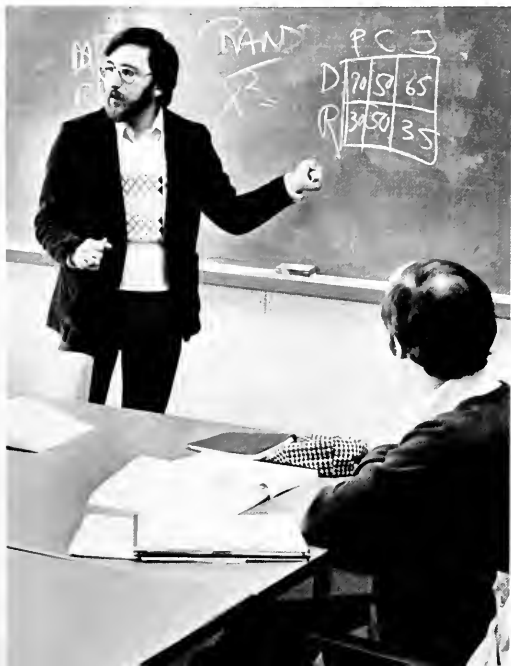

The Department of Anthropology, Social Work, and Sociology, coordinated by Dr. Richard Armstrong, stressed field experience among its majors. At the request of the Council on Social Work Education, the required major course hours of the social work major degree increased from 30 to 42. A sociology methods class conducted community housing surveys for the possible civic improvement of Richmond. Social work majors sought practicums in comprehensive care centers in Madison and its surrounding counties involving mental hospitals, correctional institutions, and children's homes. From his firsthand experience with bandit tribes in India, Dr. Paul Winther qualified to instruct "Peasant Revolutions", a new course offering in anthropology.

New programs became the theme of the Department of Political Science with its newly appointed chairman, Dr. J. A. Singleton. Both a two-year and four-year degree in Legal Assistance enabled persons to be qualified in aiding lawyers in conducting research and in preparing minor legal documents. Charles Coy, a local lawyer, instructed the first course, "Introduction to Legal Assistance". An interdepartmental Bachelor of Arts curriculum in Transportation Systems placed emphasis on the environmental aspects of modes of transportation. A change in the existing Master of Public Administration program stressed judicial administration where public administrators were trained in an area of special competence in judicial administration.

Planning to expand the present recruiting program, the Department of Physics anticipated an increased enrollment in physics related fields due to a positive reversal in the job opportunities. Supplied with modern equipment valued in excess of $250,000, physics classes were able to perform detailed instrumental research. In cooperation with the College of Education the department and its chairman, Dr. Ted George, worked extensively in offering a Master of Arts in Education degree with primary emphasis in physics. Also offered to graduates was a Master of Arts in Education degree in General Science aimed toward helping junior high general science teachers. Undergraduate classes included programs directed for physics majors as well as life science majors. The Physics Department recently received national attention when it began investigative research into the repeated appearances of an unidentified flying object over Madison and Estill counties. Photographs were taken of the object seen by thousands of residents on its nightly patterned journeys across the sky. Some national groups continued research but according to Dr. Jay Mahr,

Cammack Houses PSY Department

According to Dr. Edwin Hess, the Biology Department educated the largest number of majors of any department in the College of Arts and Sciences. Correlated with the increased public concern with ecology, the Wildlife, Fisheries, and Environmental Resources degrees received enthusiastic student responses. With an enrollment of 75 full-time and part-time graduate students, faculties conducted biological research in the areas of ecology, microbiology, parasitology, and physiology.

The Department of Chemistry, Dr. Harry Smiley, Chairman, proposed a two-year training program for chemical technicians to begin next fall. Applying for an additional equipment grant to the National Science Foundation, the Moore Building housed $75,000 worth of major equipment including a $24,000 Nuclear Magnetic Resonance Spectrum. Expanding their instruction to extended campus courses, the twelve full-time faculty members, all holding doctorates, traveled to the areas of Pikeville, Ashland, and Lexington.

Revision of undergraduate and graduate curriculums, and a move to new facilities, were the major developments in the Psychology Department. As of August, the recently renovated Cammack Building became the new home of the Psychology Department. For the first time in a long time, the entire department, under the chairmanship of Dr. Russell Enzie, was located in one building. The facilities included classrooms, offices, and extensive laboratories. Complete animal facilities, temperature controlled, and also special surgery and isolation rooms. Multipurpose labs for human and animal study involved a light-proof visual lab and a sound-proof audio lab. In addition, the building housed seminar rooms, and group therapy rooms complete with one-way mirrors, and intercom systems.

Titration remains one of the basic skills acquired in a general chemistry lab.

College of Business Grows, Expands

The College of Business, under the leadership of Dean Howard Thompson, was in a period of growth with an increased enrollment of approximately 20 percent, the employment of nine new faculty members, and the addition of a new associate dean, James Karns. Entering his second year as dean, Dr. Thompson continued programs of recruitment with a high school senior visitation day and with faculty visits to the surrounding junior colleges. High school seniors and prospective transfer students became aware of the various facilities, programs, and degrees offered by EKU's College of Business. The publication of a biannual newsletter, Business Bylines, was continued.

Growth and expansion evolved as the Central themes throughout the college in the departments of Accounting, Business Education and Office Administration, Economics, and Business Administration. Attention was focused on off campus education and on faculty professionalism.

Two degrees in Health Care Administration were offered as the result of a joint effort between the College of Business and the College of Allied Health and Nursing. Located within the Department of Accounting, headed by Dr. Claude Smith, both a Bachelor of Business Administration with a major in Health Care Administration and an Associate in Arts in Health Care Administration were made available. Designed as a response to a survey indicating a need for college trained health care facility administrators, the new programs prepared students for positions of an administrative nature in a variety of health care facilities, hospitals, nursing homes, and public and voluntary health agencies.

In an attempt to bring the practical aspects of the accounting program into the classroom, "CPA in Residence" invited practicing CPA's to the campus to spend several days lecturing and attending clubs and seminars.

Patrick Co-authors Textbook

Dr. Alfred Patrick, chairman of the Department of Business Education and Office Administration, co-authored a collegiate shorthand textbook. The department implemented the new shorthand system described in the textbook, Century 21 Shorthand-Dictation/Transcription Projects, representing a significant improvement in the ease of learning transcription.

With the basic emphasis on the two year executive secretary degree, other areas were expanded with the addition of three new courses, Medical Dictation, Transcription, and Office Practice; Office Procedures and Administration; and Legal Dictation, Transcription, and Office Practice. Dr. Emogene Hogg began a research project to determine which of three techniques proved the most effective in teaching English Grammar Review, a remedial English Course most business students seem to need.

Expressing a concern in the present economic crisis, more students enrolled in the "Principles of Economics", a basic course offered by Donald Shadoan's Economics Department. In order to motivate more students to study, to increase retention of principles, and to enable the student to see the connection of economics to everyday life, the department switched to a more modern textbook.

The Center for Economic Education was established by the Department of Economics in the College of Business in cooperation with the Department of Secondary and Higher Education in the College of Education to develop or improve economic education in the local public schools. As an affiliate of the Kentucky Council on Economic Education and the Joint Council on Economic Education, the Center was designed to serve the public schools as a resource center and to provide consultive services.

EDP Adds Two New Computers

The Business Administration Department emphasized night courses for the off campus body accounting for a 30% enrollment increase in evening classes. Dr. Warren Mullen evaluated the total effectiveness, developed curriculum, and recommended the faculty for the data processing, finance, general business, management, and marketing programs.

The real estate program advanced to six course offerings. Dr. Donald E. Bodley, professor of real estate, was chairman of an advisory committee to the Kentucky State Real Estate Commission. The group met at Eastern in October to discuss ways to extend real estate education to practitioners and the public through workshops and seminars.

The data processing center added two computers and established a "help desk" to improve its overall efficiency. The new terminal connected EKV with a larger and more powerful computer at the University of Kentucky, which is part of a state wide network. The new facilities increased the amount of utilization, facilitated research, and increased computer availability for classroom use.

In cooperation with the commerce agencies, and the U.S. Small Business Administration, the College of Business sponsored a seminar on "Export Opportunities for Kentucky Business" on Eastern's campus. Attended by officials of the U.S. and Kentucky Departments of Commerce and business representatives, topics discussed and presented included potential markets, and export procedures, finance payments, insurance, and transportation in export marketing, and international trade.

With an emphasis on growth, the College of Business was unique in expanding its offerings of business education to off campus groups as well as providing continued improvements for its own students.

Education Program Offers Workshops

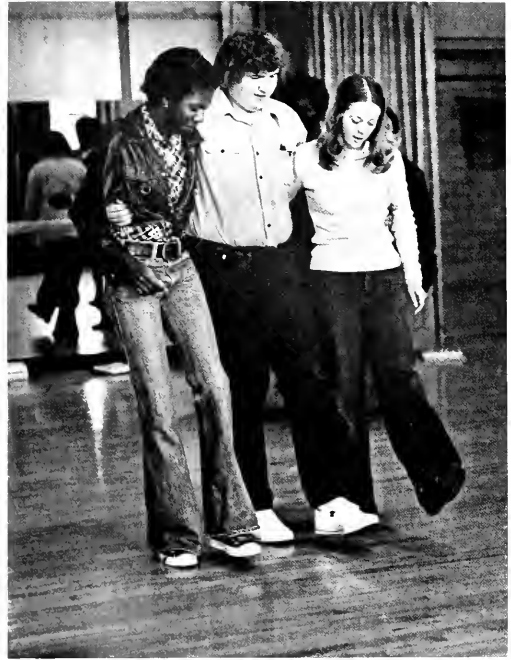

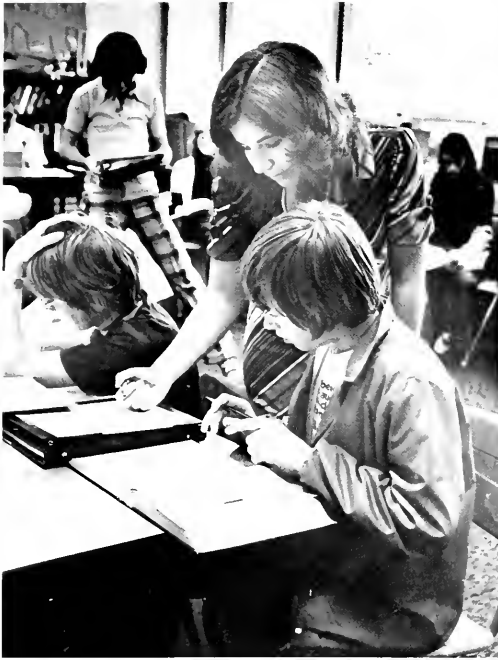

The College of Education carried on the "teaching college" tradition providing Eastern with one third of the students in its graduating class. Dean Dixon A. Barr led the college on to new course, new program, and workshop offerings. As a whole, graduate enrollment increased while undergraduate rolls stabilized due to the flood of teachers in today's job market. However, interest in non-teaching and specialized areas rose.

In the Department of Elementary Education, chairman Dr. William Morris, plans were developed for 33 summer graduate workshops and institutes. Topics for possible presentation included consumer and economic education, reading methodology, the language experience approach to teaching reading, simulations and games, aerospace education, and early childhood. The Right to Read Project directed by Dr. R. Byrne received a second year federal grant continuation. The College of Education worked with the Estill County school system to upgrade and improve its reading program. It also provided in-service training for teachers who would eventually have student teachers to supervise. EKV students worked with Estill County students during their methods classes. The three-hour block allowed for travel time and a more realistic approach to education. The subject matter used had a rural Appalachian flavor as the elementary children developed their own materials writing their own stories. The teachers then composed reading exercises from the students' work.

Right to Read Project Continues

As a joint effort with the elementary education department, the Department of Secondary Education, headed by Dr. Joe Wise, offered a new graduate class entitled "Humanistic Teaching — Strategies and Behaviors". It purposed to encourage students to have a more humanistic approach in teaching where the students' concerns and welfare took priority.

In contrast to other education programs, the Department of Special Education and Rehabilitation, under the hands of Dr. Weitse de Hoop, experienced increased membership in its rehabilitation, special education, and speech pathology programs in answer to the tremendous demands from the Kentucky State Department of Education. Changes in the certification for teachers of the handicapped influenced a complete rewriting of programs in special education. Fully implemented this year was the new program, Teaching of the Hearing Impaired. The teaching of the emotional disturbed expanded with the development of two actual classrooms located in the Wallace Building. Outreach included workshop offerings in Laurel County for teachers of the handicapped and a certification program.

Library Science initiated a program for entering freshmen with the option of a secondary teaching minor with no student teaching required. Supervised by Dr. Juanita Phillips, off-campus extension classes numbered three, located at Jeffersontown, London, and Frankfort.

Freshman education students obtained classroom experience in the elementary foundation courses, coordinated by Dr. William McKenney. By providing field experience at the freshman level, the students had a better basic foundation to build upon plus a self-screening method to evaluate the suitability of their chosen major.

Dr. Randall Visits Egypt

The Department of Education Administration and Supervision planned and advised programs of study for school administrators. Offering course work for elementary and secondary principals, supervisors, school business administrators, and superintendents, curriculum for the specialist in education degree was also available.

The Educational Psychology and Counseling Department, with chairperson Dr. Lola Doane, trained counselors for work in schools, industries, and community colleges. The Educational Psychology and Counseling major took basic courses and then moved on to practical setting in his specialty. The School Social Work program gave certification for Directors of Pupil Personnel and Leading Rank I, one year beyond the master's degree. A new program was begun to certify school psychometrists authorizing them to administer aptitude test, and to evaluate personality, achievement, and intelligence.

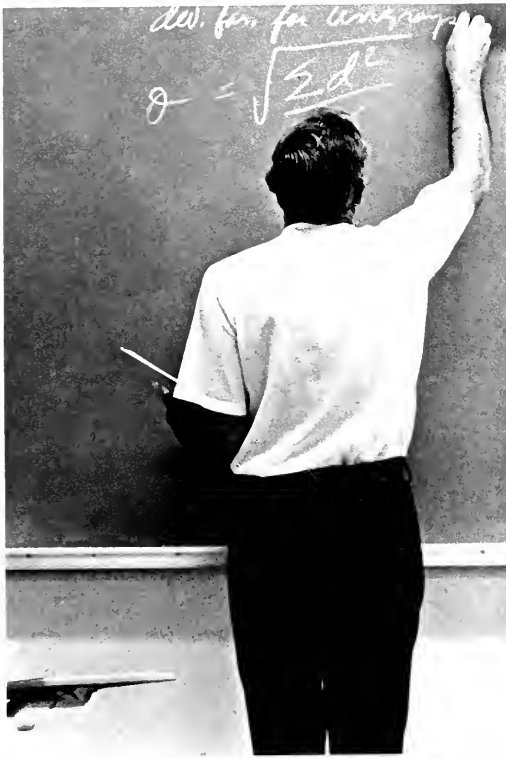

Under the direction of the Professional Laboratory Experiences Department and Dr. David L. Rush, students who had expressed the desire to become teachers and who had fulfilled the necessary academic requirements were placed into classroom situations. Serving to supervise the student teachers receiving proper placement, the department strived to meet the needs of both the student teachers and the elementary and high school students. Student teaching positions were also made available in kindergarten, library science, special education, and counseling.

An emphasis on professionalism evolved as a dominant theme in the college. Dr. Ralph White served as first vice-president for the Division of Mental Retardation of Council for Exceptional Children, a national organization. He was a main figure in organizing the annual CEC convention held in Chicago. Dr. Robert Randall spent some time in Egypt as a member of a tour sponsored by the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education. The nineteen member group attended a seminar on modernization and education in Egypt held at the Ain Shams University. Richard Howard attended a meeting of the President's Committee on Mental Retardation at Atlanta in September.

Title Nine Emphasizes Women's Sports

Headed by Dr. Ned Warren, the School of Health, Physical Education, Recreation, and Athletics was housed mainly in three major campus structures, the Begley Building, the Alumni Coliseum, and the Weaver Health Building. Undergoing a change in philosophy, the department of School and Public Health moved toward preventive medicine evidenced by an increase in enrollment and interest in the community health program. Dr. Herman Bush, chairman of the department, was named president of the American School Health Association and chairman-elect of the Kentucky Public Health Association. Dr. Romeo Cartier was elected vice chairman of the environmental health section of the latter.

Chairpersons Dr. Ann Uhler and Dr. Fred Darling led the Women's and Men's Physical Education Departments, respectively. Both experiencing substantial increases in enrollment, highest percentages were at the graduate level. Offered through the Men's Physical Education Department, males and females were exposed to a new program in Sports Administration, a teaching program at the master's level to train athletic directors. Title Nine caused greater efforts to be made in seeing that men and women participated in all types of physical education classes. Three full scholarships were granted to be divided in any way. Thirteen girls were awarded scholarships in basketball, gymnastics, track and field, swimming, and riflery.

The Recreation and Park Administration Department grew to three new degree offerings and four new course offerings. Associate of Arts Degrees in Park Maintenance, Therapeutic Recreation Leadership, and Commercial Recreation Leadership were designed to meet demands for recreation majors. New courses to meet these majors' requirements included Recreation and Park Maintenance, Education for Leisure and Recreative Living, Professional Field Training, and Special Recreation Problems Seminar. Recreation Workshop was improvised as a weekend course where students met and studied a particular camp skill. Theory sessions and field experiences were intermixed within camping trips by backpack, including climbing and rappelling, bicycle camping, canoe camping, and spelunking. The department, chairman Dr. James McChesney, sponsored a campus-wide summer camp placement service day, open to all students desiring this type of summer job.

LEN Occupies Robert Martin Center

The College of Law Enforcement, Dean Robert W. Posey, entered its second year of college status with an enrollment of 2,300 majors. The departments of Police Administration, Corrections, Traffic Safety Institute, Fire Prevention and Control, and the Criminal Justice Research Center combined to form the college.

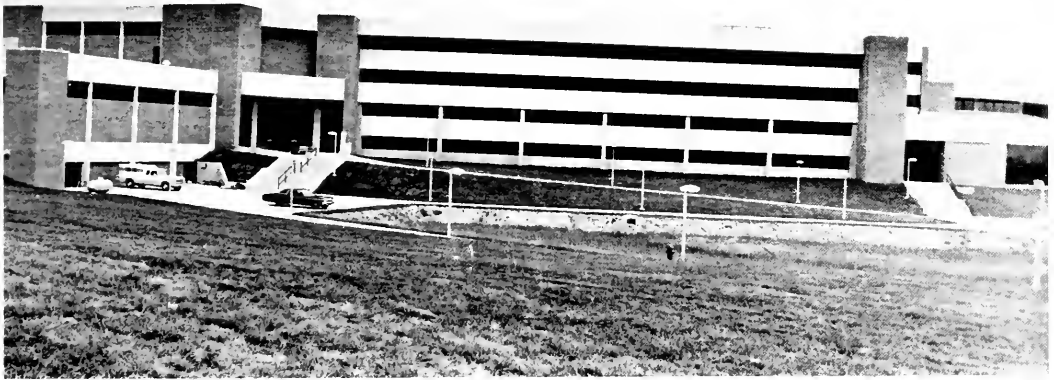

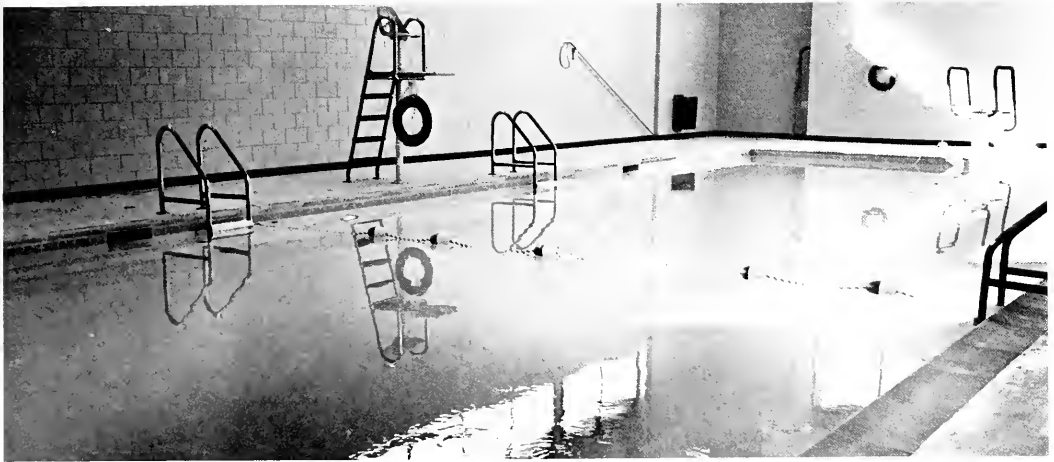

In August, 1975, the College of Law Enforcement established residence in the new Robert R. Martin $6.5 million Law Enforcement, Fire Science, Traffic Safety Center. The structure housed a 354-seat auditorium named for Dean Robert W. Posey who formerly served as commander of the Kentucky State Police Academy. The building was named for Henry D. Stratton, a member of the Board of Regents, a Pikeville attorney, banker, and communications executive, president of the Kentucky State Bar Association and a member of the Crime Commission.

Special features contained in and located near the complex were a 2.58 acre lake for aquatic safety and salvage training, a 25 - by - 60 foot training tank for aquatic training in first aid, an indoor pistol range, a cafeteria, a model court room, a library, sophisticated and specialized laboratories for criminalistics, photography, and driver training, and a 7.03 acre driving range featuring an air-conditioned control tower from which driver training and skid pad activities can be directed and supervised.

EKU Trains Future Crime Lab Personnel

The Department of Police Administration headed by Mr. Robert Bagby enjoyed an increased enrollment. A two-year Criminalistics program and a four-year Forensic Science program evolved as two new degree offerings. The program in Criminalistics was designed to produce an "evidence technologist" while the Forensic Science program was designed to train crime laboratory personnel. An expansion in Industrial Security courses was also pursued. Students in the new degree programs trained in comprehensive labs equipped with detailed equipment and apparatus. The gas chromatograph/mass spectrometer analyzed drugs from blood and urine samples; the gas chromatograph determined the amount of alcohol in blood and urine samples; and the x-ray fluorescence depicted the metal content in samples of paint chips and blood.

Under the direction Mr. F. Dale Cozad, the Department of Fire Prevention and Control ran 10 courses with 159 students enrolled. The three new curricula in fire prevention and control, a certification program, the associate of arts degree, and the bachelor of science degree, were expanded to the areas of Owensboro, Lexington, Fort Knox, and Berea. The degree led to careers in fire departments, fire insurance companies, fire marshals' offices, security forces, teaching, construction firms, and agencies supervising building codes and safety regulations.

Simulation Expedites Driver's Training

Dr. James Fox coordinated the Criminal Justice Research Center, the research arm of the college. Established through a federal grant from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration in 1973, the center's staff taught graduate courses and conducted research in areas of manpower, juries, victimization, and corrections, and in comparative criminal justice systems between Kentucky and Thailand. Issuing research results to the federal government and different publications, the center offered a service to the Commonwealth by providing research in various problem areas of criminal justice.

The Correctional Services Department headed by Dr. Charles Reedy enrolled 39 two-year students and 148 four-year students. The department emphasized field experience and training by allowing its students to visit professional correctional personnel such as judges and prison officials. Offering a two-year specialization degree in Juvenile Justice, a two-year and four-year degree in Correctional Services, and post-graduate programs in Criminal Law, Corrections, and Juvenile Justice, cooperation among justice agencies of the police, juvenile justice, and courts was stressed. The Correctional Services Department hoped to eventually deal with schools aiding in juvenile problems and to focus on rural crime.

The Traffic Safety Institute under the leadership of Dr. William Browne emphasized research, instruction, and public information in dealing with traffic safety. An alcohol driver education program received research funding along with four other projects while traffic program facilities included simulation equipment, a learning lab, a driving range, and a breathalyzer lab.

Graduate School Stresses Quality

The Graduate School entered its third year under the directorship of Dean Charles H. Gibson. Showing an increase in enrollment over last fall, Dr. Gibson attributed the larger influx of students to the present lack of economic and job opportunities. Students returned to school for continuing studies and programs for the purpose of improving themselves scholastically and occupationally.

Offering nine separate degrees, EKV's Graduate School represented some ninety-two continuing education programs including a joint doctoral degree involving three other universities and certification programs including various educational positions.

Due to a moratorium on program expansion issued by the Kentucky State Legislature, the Graduate School emphasized internal quality control in each of its many and varied programs. Guidelines were developed to be used as a model for the evaluation and review of existing programs on a periodic basis. Quality measures scrutinized included budget allotments, faculty members, library facilities, and student interest and enrollment. After a rapid expansion during the past decade, faculty and administration worked to consolidate and to improve the quality of its existing programs.

Grads Are Both Students and Teachers

Acting the roles of both students and teachers, a majority of grads conducted courses during the day and attended graduate classes at night. Basic courses in psychology, college algebra, accounting, English, physical education, methods in education, science, and various other subjects were offered under the leadership of graduate students. Physiology, chemistry, geology, general science, and biology labs were organized by graduate lab instructors. The grad was a many faceted person, acting as a teacher, student, and researcher.

Grads Receive Financial Assistance

Graduate students found opportunities for further study with financial aid in the form of graduate assistantships, loans, special fellowships and scholarships, and part-time employment. Advertising assistantships in thirty-nine general areas, EKV approved 191 positions this fall representing one of the largest single sources of financial aid. Unusually well qualified students in the field of law enforcement took advantage of the limited number of special fellowships. The work study program was also made available to a significantly large group of graduate students.

Lisa Gardner Chosen To Hall Of Fame

Lisa Ann Gardner is the 15th recipient of EKU's top academic honor, the Hall of Fame. There were five nominations, coming from the Deans of the nominee's respective colleges. UNDERCLASSES

BY

Juniors Sponsor Fun-raising Program

Determined to make their Junior year their best one at Eastern, the members of the class of 1977 undertook a massive advertising program in an effort to attract fellow classmates to their meetings. Operating under the theme of "fun-raising," the class placed posters in major classroom buildings and in the doms. Local restaurants and radio stations also participated in the advertising program.

The class focused its attention on serving others during the fall semester. A Christmas Toyshop was organized to benefit needy children of the Richmond area. Toys were collected in local churches and dormitories. Then they were repaired, wrapped, stored, and delivered on December 13.

The Junior class sponsored a candidate in the Miss Eastern Pageant during the spring semester. Their other activities were concentrated primarily toward fund-raising. Junior class members spent their final year as underclassmen creating beneficial and memorable experiences.

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS. Dale Petrey, publicity chairman; Pat Lacy, vice-president; Mindy Shannon, president; Marla Byers, treasurer; Robert McFalls, secretary.

Sophomores Sponsor Talent Show

With one year of college experience completed, the class of 1978 began the second year with hopes of attaining unity and cooperation among its classmates. The principal goal of their projects was to foster service for the University and Richmond community.

The class officers and committees put forth a great deal of effort to produce the second annual University Talent Show. Working along with the freshman class, the class of 1978 produced a talent show which benefitted the Cancer Crusade and introduced individual talent to Eastern's campus.

Freshmen Begin College Experiences

Following officer elections, the members of the class of 1979 launched their first year at college by electing two Homecoming Queen candidates. On the eighth of November the class participated in the Project Encirclement to celebrate our nation's Bicentennial.

The freshman class planned numerous activities. Its major project was to sponsor the second annual University Talent Show along with the Sophomore class. The proceeds of the talent show went to charity. This event concluded a very successful initial year for our campus newcomers.

Catalina Club Publishes The Chronicles

The constitution of the Catalina Club explains that the club's purpose is to provide creative experiences involving aquatic skills, rhythm and design opportunities for participants to develop leadership, fellowship, cooperation and incentive.

Each September selection is made for the club. To be selected one must swim four strokes — breaststroke, backstroke, side-stroke and front crawl. The participant must then perform four stunts selected by the entire club. There are two practices before tryouts and in order to tryout the perspective new member must attend one.

During the fall semester the girls attended a symposium held in Tallahassee, Florida. The symposium, sponsored by the National Institute of Creative Aquatics, was held to increase the proficiency of the girls' skills and introduce them to new ones.

In the spring, the Catalina Club presented a water ballet. The theme was NEWSPAPERS. The sections were divided as in a newspaper and portrayed by the girls. Practices all year are used to prepare and practice for the spring water show.

Dance Theatre Hosts Concerts

The Eastern Dance Theatre began each semester by holding auditions for all students interested in dance. The theatre, primarily based on modern dance, includes other dance forms such as ballet and jazz because of the members diversified interests in dance. In October and March, the theatre members choreographed and produced two concerts in the Gifford Theatre.

The Cincinnati Ballet Company was in residence at Eastern in the fall for three days. They gave lecture-demonstrations, offered ballet classes, and presented a concert on their last evening here. Dan Wagoner brought his modern dance troupe to Eastern the second semester. He too gave classes, demonstrations and a concert.

The dance theatre itself went out into the community to perform also. They gave lecture-demonstrations and a concert in Lexington.

Clubs Give Aid To Students

The goal of the University Players is to promote theatre and to aid in the university productions. Membership is open to any university students interested in theatre. Trips to other schools and professional theatres to see productions are organized throughout the year by the Players. After opening night of each of the university plays, the club hosts a reception, acquainting the cast with the audience. The club participated in the 1975 Homecoming parade dressed as clowns. They also assisted with the Kentucky Theatre Association Convention which was held at Eastern this year.

The AMA chapter sponsored guest speakers during the year including Mr. Rozen, president of Southern Dollar Stores, and Dr. Davis, Professor of Transportation at the University of Arkansas. Fall field trips were taken to Clark Equipment and IBM. Several more trips were planned for the spring semester. As an aid to marketing seniors, the club compiled a resume book to help in obtaining employment. In the spring a fifty dollar scholarship was given to an outstanding marketing major.

Accountants Participate In Volunteer Program

In order to broaden their knowledge of the accounting profession, the members of the Accounting Club took field trips to accounting firms and other businesses. These journeys provided accounting majors with an in depth look at various possible accounting careers. The organization sponsored various guest speakers from accounting related professions. Tutoring sessions were conducted by club members to help beginning accounting students with their classes. The club also participated in the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance Program for area residents and EKU students.

ALEN Aids In Correction Program

The Association of Law Enforcement provided its members with unique opportunities to be involved in various aspects of law enforcement on the campus and community levels. Some of the events of the year included a volunteers in correction program, a bowling league, a community blood and cancer drive, and the annual Law Enforcement banquet.

Field trips were taken to various law enforcement and correctional facilities in the Commonwealth. Through these and other events the ALEN increasingly met its main objective of enhancing the knowledge of its membership in the Criminal Justice field.

Clubs Offer Professional Aid

Phi Beta Lambda is a professional business organization which performed service projects for the campus and community. Some of their projects included campus tour guides for visiting seniors, collecting for the March of Dimes, typing resumes, for business students and giving a faculty appreciation tea. Among their professional activities, Phi Beta Lambda attended various leadership conferences. Their national convention was held in Washington D.C. During the spring semester the club gave a Bicentennial production commemorating our country's two hundredth birthday.

An organization for pre-law students, named the E.K.U. Barristers, was formally chartered this year. The club, which is open to all interested pre-law students was founded to inform and prepare students for the Law Admissions Test, acquaint its members with the requirements of law schools, and provide information about the legal profession through independent studies and guest speakers. During the year, the Barristers took trips to the University of Louisville and University of Kentucky Law Schools and hosted guest speakers from various law schools and other related areas.

Clubs Give Insight To Future Teachers

The SNEA, a preprofessional organization, is an integral part of the National Education Association (NEA), in which they have a voice. The club strives to develop an understanding and appreciation for the teaching profession. Membership to SNEA requires enrollment in the educational field. A person may join regardless of his classification and no specific grade point is required.

Each member pays national dues which buys an insurance policy, becoming effective the semester of student teaching. Activities included a fashion show featuring changes in wardrobe from college to teaching, a Halloween party for underprivileged children, discussions on teaching certification and job interviews.

For its members, ACE provided programs in the areas of music, literature and the rights of children in pre-school and elementary school. They sponsored a weekly story hour in the Learning Resources Center at the library. One of their most successful projects was a weiner roast and sing along, led by Dr. Arthur Harvey of the music department for children of the Richmond area.

Working With People Is Theme For Clubs

Operation Olympics for the handicapped and the Special Olympics for the mentally retarded were two service projects which members of the Rec Club participated. This year as a service project the club purchased t-shirts to provide a camp scholarship for underprivileged children.

The Ag Club is open to anyone with a special interest in agriculture. From funds raised by the club they sponsored trips for affiliated clubs within the Ag department.

Men and Women's Interdorm worked in conjunction to bring social activities to men and women residing on campus. Social events included a Halloween Social, Christmas Social, and Bingo Night.

Activities that Women's Interdorm have sponsored are the Women's Day Banquet and a little sis weekend. Men's Interdorm sponsored Las Vegas Night in the Powell Grill.

Interdorm also worked on the improvement of maintenance in residence halls, increasing resident hall budgets and constitutional changes to increase the effectiveness of House Councils.

Clubs Strive To Combat Political Apathy

The College Republicans are working hard to combat an attitude of political apathy on campus prevalent the last few years.

Members operated a phone bank in Madison County during the governor's race in the fall of 1975. Many of the members spent many hours working at the state headquarters in Frankfort.

Some of the members were delegates to the Senior Party

State Convention where delegates to the National Nominating Convention were selected.

Membership to the Young Democrats is open to any interested student. They participated in the election in November and sponsored speakers such as Thelma Stovall, lieutenant governor and George Adkins, state auditor.

The purpose behind the Young

Democrats is to make young people aware of political activities and become involved. This was just what the members did. The entire spring semester was entirely devoted to getting ready for the Young Democrats' State Convention held in Richmond May 13-15. It was a three day affair at which Presidential candidates were introduced and state officers elected.

Student Association Works For Orderly Change

Students of Eastern Kentucky University found out that by hard work and positive thinking changes and improvements can be made, and the Association represented a total segment of student population through a new system.

Eastern Kentucky University Student Government became a leader in the State of Kentucky by forming the Student Government Association of Kentucky.

Student Government took a big step forward in working on teacher evaluation and a student travel information center. Student Government continued to work on the Open House Policy, 24-hour study area, student ride service and the changes with room inspection policies. The Student Association also became strongly involved in counseling of students who were charged with University violations.

Banquets Feature Native Foods

The purposes of the French and German Clubs is to provide students interested in French and German about the cultures in an informed atmosphere.

Each semester the two clubs hosted banquets featuring native food and drink. The entertainment is performed in the foreign tongue.

In October the German club participated in the Bicentennial Celebration held in Lexington. Their exhibit, "Famous Germans in Kentucky History," was selected as one of the most outstanding exhibits at the celebration.

In addition to the social activities, the club members are available for tutoring students in the introductory courses.

Members Informed Of Professional Fields

For the first time, the Home Ec Club awarded a scholarship to a junior or senior in the Home Ec Club with a 3.0 or above standing. The club started out the year by inducting the new members followed by a potluck dinner. Speakers in various areas were scheduled throughout the year to inform members of what is available to them in the Home Ec field. Programs included a showing of arts and crafts, Churchill Weavers, a speaker on the food service in public schools, and a home economist from a big corporation company. As a service project for club members, "Care Packages" requested by parents were delivered to members during finals week.

Persons interested in food service, dietetics and home economics were eligible for membership in the Food and Nutrition Club. The club helped its members become informed of the fields open to food and nutrition majors and provided practical experience to complement studies in food. Their annual project was a fund-raising spaghetti dinner in February. In April they held their annual forum, featuring speakers from food related areas to further inform students of their majors and opportunities available.

Societies Extend Valuable Experiences

Delta Sigma Rho, like other honorary fraternities and sororities, seeks to accomplish its purpose primarily by selectively extending membership to outstanding forensics performers. The forensics society deals with all aspects of speech — ranging from debate to individual events. The EKV chapter of Delta Sigma Rho has much to be proud of. Under the intense leadership of Professor Max Huss, Eastern activity participated throughout the country in every possible phase of intercollegiate forensics.

The Interior Design Club provided its members with both social and academically related functions. In the fall the club participated in many social activities, but the highlight was a trip to Chicago to visit the Merchandise Mart and tour of the city's architectural sites. Spring activities included a trip to High Point, North Carolina, for the IBD convention with several design entries from the club. The annual symposium was a one day event featuring several well known designers.

AUSA Assists In Local Blood Drive

The Association of the United States Army began its year with the national convention held in Washington, D.C. The annual military ball and banquet was held in the Keene Johnson Ballroom with Brigadier General Charles Beach, Jr. as the guest speaker. The following day the ROTC Program was honored at the annual halftime program honoring ROTC Day at Eastern. Other guest speakers throughout the year included Major General Frymire, Adjutant General of Kentucky. As a service project, the AUSA helped with the blood drive as volunteer workers.

P.R.'s Place First In Competition

The Pershing Rifles, a national honorary military fraternity, provided their services for football games, concerts, and community related activities.

Military Groups Serve Campus

Helping with the bloodmobile and acting as tour guides on Band Day were among the service projects conducted by the Athenian Shield. Practical military experience was gained on weekend trips of repelling, canoeing, and campouts. The cadets gained further insight into the woman's role in the army through drill, rules involving wear of the uniform, and customs of the army.

The Military Police, a service organization whose general interest is working together, serve the campus and community. Campus services the M.P.'s performed are flag detail and color guard for football and basketball games. They are on twenty-four hour disaster call. Each morning they direct traffic at busy intersections around the campus. Membership to the M.P.'s requires a 2.0 grade point and affiliation with the ROTC program. Freshmen through seniors may join. Basically a service organization, the M.P.'s also have field training exercises.

Chem. Club Attends ACS, — Circle K Serves Others

With the theme, "Impact on Life" Circle K began the fall semester. Early in the semester the club sponsored a child from Appalachia. To raise money for the Kidney Foundation, Circle K sold candy. They conducted their annual peanut sale during Homecoming week and helped to supervise the warehouse and concession stand used for building the floats. A party at Shriner's Children's Hospital was given for Valentine's Day. The annual Bike-A-Thon for Multiple Sclerosis was held in February.

Affiliated with the American Chemical Society (ACS), the chemistry club sponsored a trip to the University of Clemson in South Carolina where the annual ACS Southeastern Conference was held. Two Eastern students presented papers on independent research at the conference. Members served as hosts and campus guides for high school students who attended the annual science, math, and physics (SMAP) tests and the regional meeting of the Kentucky Junior Academy of Science held at Eastern.

Civitan Serves Campus And Community

Collegiate Civitan was a service organization which served the campus and community. In October, the club sponsored an Activities Fair in the Keen Johnson Ballroom. All clubs on campus were invited to participate. They set up displays giving students a chance to find out more about organizations in which they were interested. February kicked off the national "Have A Heart Campaign." This was a campaign to raise money for the National Association of Retarded Children. The EKU Collegiates held a roadblock and bake sale in an effort to raise money for NARC. In April, the club participated in the Special Olympics.

KDT Aids Needy Families

As a service organization, Kappa Delta Tau's primary goal this year was to aid the community and campus in every possible way.

For the fifth year, the organization sponsored an American Indian child and helped to send her through school. During Thanksgiving, they conducted a canned goods drive, and collected over 500 items to aid needy families in the Richmond area. The KDT's also visited nursing homes in Richmond, and traveled to Shriner's Children's Hospital in Lexington. The girls served as hostesses at banquets during the year, helped give campus tours, and worked the polls for campus elections.

Socially, the KDT's held a Winter and Spring formal. At their annual Parent's Day Banquet in December the new officers were installed.

Little Colonels Promote Spirit

The Little Colonels Drill Team entertained along with the Marching Maroons at halftime during home football games promoting school spirit and supporting athletic events.

During basketball game halftimes the girls perform precision drill and fancy dance step routines. A new routine for each performance is designed by the co-captains and lieutenants.

The team traveled with the band to Frankfort, Kentucky, to march in the Governor's Inaugural Parade.

In an effort to raise money to support the team, the girls sold football programs and took over Frisch's. As an aid to the press, the squad distributed statistics to the press table during the home basketball games.

Marching Maroons Receive New Uniforms

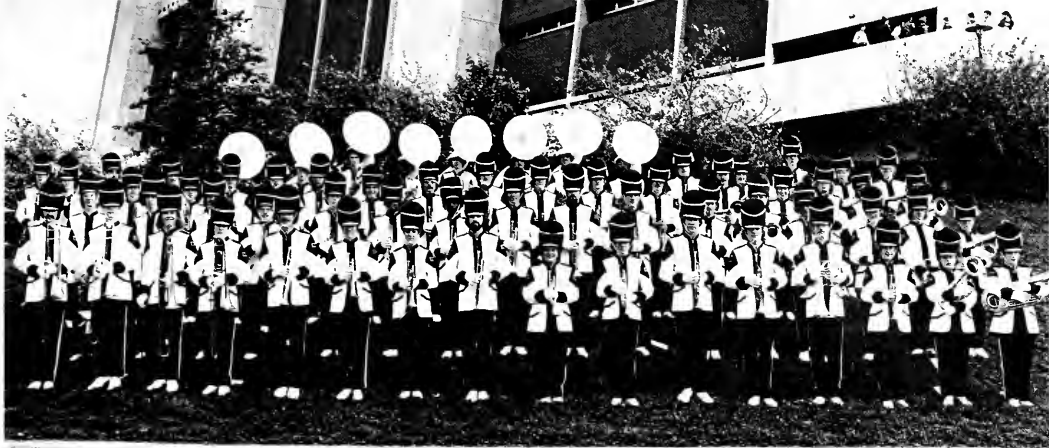

Fall 1975 proved to be an exciting season for the Marching Maroons with an increase in total membership, the receipt of the new uniforms, and outstanding response from the University community.

Halftime shows consisted of a comedy review of popular television shows, a salute to Rock Opera, the Homecoming show, "Oldies But Goldies," and a Patriotic tribute to our country and our flag.

The Marching Maroons performed at five home games and journeyed to both East Tennessee and Morehead State Universities during the season. Parade activities included the Homecoming Parade in October and the Governor's Inaugural Parade in December to conclude the season.

Majorettes Attend Inaugural Parade

The EKU majorettes were busy this football season performing at five home games and traveling with the band to two away games, at East Tennessee and Morehead. In addition to the EKU Homecoming Parade, the majorettes and the Marching Maroons participated in the Inaugural Parade in Frankfort in December. Many hours of practice and a corps of competent twirlers made this season a pleasure and success for the girls participating.

Twirlers Entertain

Always found practicing right along with the Marching Maroons were the feature twirlers, Kandy Clay and Mike Allen. They work along with the band and majorettes to make a great halftime show. Although they work in conjunction with the band their routines remain highly individualized. At times one could look out on the field at halftime and see Kandy twirling-not one-but two-or more fire batons. Not to be outdone by Kandy, Mike is seen at the other end of the field twirling fire too. Aerials and turns are included on a long list of baton techniques which Mike and Kandy have perfected over many years of practice.

Newman Center Is A People Place

"The Catholic Newman Center is more than just a place, it is people, the varied personalities, and the 'short but stately' priest that make the house on 432 Oak Street into a home for all who enter." Similar words were said about the religious center at its January 25 banquet commemorating its growth of five years. The Center's perfect recipe is three parts — spiritual retreats, Sunday's touch of homecooked meals, and peppered with faces new and old. It has consistent portions of Bible discussions and sharing groups, the echoing laughter of jokes passed, and small gatherings for the liturgy. All is filled with priestly counseling, and topped with the guitars and exuberant voices of the Newman Singers.

Organized to provide fellowship, spiritual growth, and service to others in the name of Christ, the Baptist Student Union and Wesley Foundation involved Eastern students in many activities. BSU Youth revival teams traveled to churches throughout Kentucky conducting weekend services. The Wesley Foundation held an exchange weekend with Union College in the fall. Both groups participated in weekend retreats.

The BSU combined with the Wesley Foundation in November to present a talent show at the BSU center.

Aurora Sponsors Poetry Circuit

The student staff of the Aurora, comprised mainly of English and Art majors, worked under the supervision of Dr. William Sutton, Dr. Gordon Browning, and Dr. Harry Brown of the English Department, and Mr. Donald Dewey, assistant professor of art. Student art work, manuscripts of poetry, short stories, and creative essays were carefully reviewed prior to acceptance for publication.

In addition to putting out the annual magazine, members of Aurora helped to sponsor the Bluegrass Poetry Circuit in which eleven central Kentucky colleges and universities participated. Robert Penn Warren, acclaimed poet and novelist, served as one of the judges of the Kentucky student poets. Aurora staff member, Joe Wood, represented Eastern in the circuit and presented a poetry reading of his own work on campus in late February.

Progress Experiences Change

The Eastern Progress began another year of weekly publication with a new look. Changes in layout, the standing heads and the masthead were made under the direction of T. G. Moore, editor during the first semester.

Campus issues, particularly safety, received extensive coverage, as did student rights and responsibilities. Arguments for and against student government were found on the editorial page along with views on such things as the President's veto of the tobacco price supports and the Equal Rights Amendment.

The Progress registered a first this year — woman sports editor Marla Ridenour, who improved both the appearance and coverage of the sports section.

The second semester found Diana Taylor as editor and major reshuffling of editorial positions which left women in almost every spot. The two exceptions were David Swofford, business manager, and Brian Ashley, assistant managing editor.

Hard Work Produces Bicentennial Milestone

In keeping with the celebration of the second hundred years of our nation's birthday, the yearbook staff worked diligently in publishing the fifty-third Milestone. The staff members began by working in association with members of the Delmar Publishing Company in the fall workshop.

Top editors and staff members learned new skills and different techniques of yearbook journalism by participating in the fifty-first Associated Collegiate Press Conference in St. Louis, Missouri.

The final publication did not appear immediately. It took hours of patience, hard work, dedication and cooperation between staff members. The entire project depended on the cooperation of students for the needed written copy, the photographers for the picture copy, and the staff members to combine these two aspects to produce the final polished 1976 Milestone.

Editor Janet Smith brought the yearbook year to an end as she presented the initial copy of the Milestone to President Martin and awarded honors to outstanding section editors, staff members, and photographers at the annual wards banquet in the spring.

Photographers Record Campus Life Pictorially

The photographic staff at Eastern Kentucky University began the year with a bare nucleus of two student photographers and the two staff photographers. After a recruiting and testing period two fine freshmen photographers were found to help record pictorially, the vast number of activities and events that happen on campus to make student life the vital part of college life that it is for the Milestone and Progress.

The second semester saw the actual size of the staff remain the same although two new photographers were found. Because the effective number of the staff remained small, each member was able to develop in such a manner that enabled each person to function as creatively as possible and still meet the high standards required to produce quality photographs suitable for publication.

Panhellenic Council Sponsors Marathon

The Panhellenic Council is the governing body of the sororities composed of two representatives of each of the nine sororities.

The Council was busy in the fall with a Dance Marathon for the Epilepsy Foundation. Through the coordinated efforts of the council and fine participation, $375 was raised for the foundation.

Rush was different this year because of the new sorority — Pi

Beta Phi. After many Rush parties, 150 girls pledged the nine sororities.

On Halloween all nine sororities participated in collecting for UNICEF. At Christmas they took part in the traditional "Hanging of the Greens." By this time, plans were being made for the Miss Eastern Pageant. In April plans had been completed and the pageant was a big success.

The Panhellenic Banquet was held in April in the Keene Johnson Ballroom. At the formal dinner the scholarship award was presented to the sorority with the highest scholastic standing and the new president was installed.

IFC Promotes Brotherhood, Leadership, Scholarship and Service

During the 1975-76 academic year, Eastern's Interfraternity Council continued its efforts in promoting the ideals of brotherhood, scholarship, service and leadership among its member organizations.

The I.F.C. annually presents awards to fraternities demonstrating academic excellence and outstanding service to the University and the community. Through special seminars and workshops and through cooperative efforts with regional and national fraternity leadership, the Interfraternity Council strives to maintain an atmosphere of professionalism and responsibility among Eastern's twelve fraternities. This modern approach to fraternalism insures relevance to today's society and continuity in the development of new programs and opportunities for today's student.

ADPi's Sponsor Paddleball Tournament

Epsilon Phi chapter of Alpha Delta Pi began a very fun-filled and eventful year by receiving thirty pledges into their sisterhood. Sigma Chi Derby, DU Bike Race, SAE County Fair in which they tied for first place with Kappa Delta, and the Phi Mu Swim-a-thon were a few of the various social activities in which the sisters participated. In October, they sponsored their annual Paddleball Tournament with the proceeds going to the Cancer Society and the Muscular Dystrophy Fund.

November eighth was the annual Parents Day. They honored their parents with a dinner at Boone Tavern and a message from Providence President Nancy Green. The annual Christmas party with the Pi-Guys and their winter formal brought the fall semester to a close.

A Bicentennial party with the UK and Western ADPi chapters, and a Founder's Day dinner with the sisters at UK and Western were all included in spring semester activities. Bringing the year to a close was the spring formal at Park Mammoth.

As a contribution to civic services, the sisters sponsored an Indian child in Nevada.

They captured two first places in the events at Sigma Chi Derby and one in the Beta Theta Pi Football Tournament.

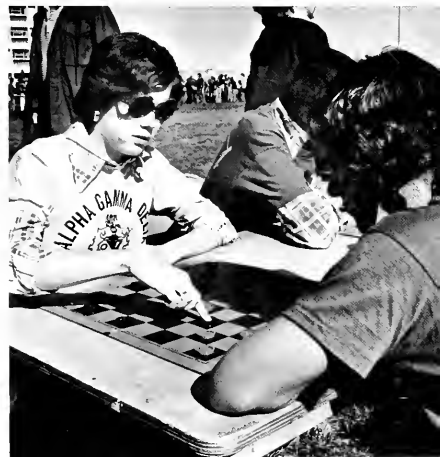

The Alpha Gams engaged in many spring activities, such as the Theta Chi Volleyball Tournament, KA Old South, Pikes Peak Week. They also sponsored their own annual Softball Tournament in April.

Sarah Gooch was chosen to receive the Junior Panhellenic Scholarship Award at the annual Jr. Panhellenic Banquet. EKU's Gamma Omicron Chapter was proud to host International Reunion Day for the other Kentucky chapters of Alpha Gamma Delta on April 10, 1976. AKA's Hold Halloween Party For Children

Alpha Kappa Alpha, the oldest black Greek sorority, was branched onto EKU's campus on April 25, 1971. Housed on the sixth floor of Telford Hall, the women of Zeta Nu chapter live, work and share the joys of Greek life.

In keeping with its declared purpose "Service to All Mankind" AKA engaged in programs dealing with civic, social, and educational services. Included in these were projects for the children of Richmond's community, a scholarship fund and Miss Ebony Pageant.

The motto "By Merit and By Culture" underlines the desire for those young women who exemplify themselves to achieve the best in life and Greek services.

During Homecoming the Beta's presented their version of Old Glory by building a float with the sisters of Kappa Delta which was voted the most original in the parade. The brothers also held their annual Homecoming football game with the Beta alumni. Other activities included the Beta's first annual parent's day with open house at the lodge, a football game and banquet.

Athletic activities included campus championship in basketball and wrestling. The Beta's sponsored their annual Football tournament for Eastern fraternities and sororities and their fifth annual basketball tournament for neighboring Beta chapters.

Delta Sigma Theta engaged in several service projects this year. These included various activities which aided the community and Eastern. The Sorors sponsored a campus wide sickle cell testing drive. They also sponsored a child through the Christian Childrens Fund.

The annual Delta Week was also held in February. The purpose of the week was to better acquaint the public with Delta Sigma Theta. A major service project, the annual Mr. Esquire Fashion Show, was sponsored to raise money which was donated to the United Negro College Fund.

The KA's work at reconstructing the stone wall at their newly acquired Southern mansion.

KA's Acquire Old Southern Mansion

Eastern's Delta Mu chapter ushered in the 1975-76 school year by acquiring a fine Southern Mansion. The mansion, built in 1885 is a perfect example of the rich Southern heritage the brothers strive to uphold. In 1865, at Washington College, Kappa Alpha order was founded to exemplify the life and ideals of General Robert E. Lee — its spiritual ancestor. Each brother strives to maintain this image in the fine tradition.

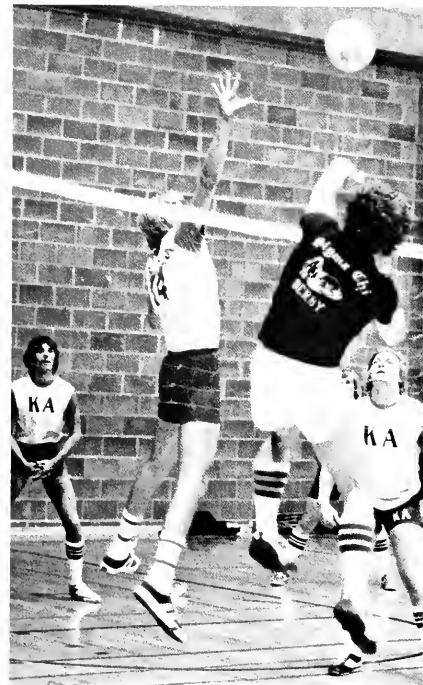

Kappa Alpha highlighted its school year by sponsoring its annual Old South Week which featured the girls olympics and a campus wide mixer with live Bluegrass music. The Sharecroppers Dance and Old South Ball at Jenny Wiley State Park drew the week to an exciting conclusion.

Other social events for the KA's included a joint KA-SAE party at the Campbell House, a casino party, Beef Roast, plus numerous gatherings at their new mansion. The KA's participated in homecoming theme — History on Parade — by presenting their version of "A Torn Page In History" by building a float with the sisters of ADPi.

The KA cannon supported the Eastern Colonels during the football season. Delta Mu also supported the SAE County Fair, Phi Mu Swim-A-Thon, ADPi Racquetball Tournament, TKE Basketball Tournament, and parents' day weekend in November. They carried away the honor athletically, by winning the Intramural Football Championship.

KD's Conduct Several Service Projects

Eastern's chapter of Kappa Delta, Delta Omicron, became involved in many campus-wide activities this year. They won second place in the Sigma Chi Derby and took first place in the Phi Mu Swim-a-thon, SAE County Fair and DU Bike Race.

Homecoming found the sisters joining with the brothers of Beta Theta Pi to carry out the Bicentennial theme and create the winning float. The Kappa Delta parents were honored with a banquet at Boone Tavern in Berea and an open house on the KD floor in November. Doing their part for the sorority, the pledges sponsored the KD Dating Game in December.

Kappa Delta's service activities included the sale of Christmas Seals for their national philanthropy — the Crippled Children's Hospital in Richmond, Virginia. They also collected for Cystic Fibrosis and helped the Presbyterian Church with a collection for the underprivileged.

Variety Show Raises Money For Scholarship

This year as always, the brothers of the Omega Psi Phi fraternity expressed their social consciousness through the various programs held for the campus and Richmond community.

One of the programs the fraternity sponsored was a variety show in the Model School's auditorium. Funds raised went to a scholarship fund for an underprivileged high school student. Along with the Delta Sigma Theta sorority they helped sponsor free sickle cell blood tests on the campus.

A Halloween party for underprivileged children from the Richmond area was held at the old Telford Community Center. Everyone enjoyed the haunted house, bobbing for apples, and Brother George Jackson's homemade taffy. The fraternity also held its annual Talent Hunt and the Omega Ball.

Scholastic Honors Achieved By Phi Delts

While remaining strong in intramural competition, the brothers of Phi Delta Theta captured campus scholastic honors for an unprecedented fifth consecutive semester.

Social activities found the Phi Delt's aiding the sisters of Pi Beta Phi in the construction of their homecoming float. Brothers and alumni were found both on the field and in the stands during the homecoming victory over Western. Their annual homecoming party was held at the Aquatics Club in Lexington. Other social activities found the brothers on weekend camping retreats and at the Natural Bridge State Park for their spring formal. They also sponsored a softball tournament.

Charitable contributions included a Christmas gift to a needy family and participation in the National Easter Seals Walk-a-thon.

Dedicated to the principles of friendship and sound learning, Phi Delta Theta was established, at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, on December 26, 1848. Each semester Phi Delt pledges of Kentucky Theta chapter visit the brothers at Oxford and tour the headquarters of our nation's third largest fraternity. This year the brothers at Eastern received Phi Delta Theta's General Headquarters Trophy for achievement in leadership and brotherhood.

The brothers participated in civic as well as social activities throughout the year.

Known for their fire truck, the brothers of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity set up a display on the truck at various places around campus during rush week in the fall. This gave freshmen a chance to find out about the fraternity first hand.

This year the brothers came away as victors in the Beta football tournament. Besides intramural football the Pikes also participated in intramural basketball.

Sigma Chi's Collect For UNICEF

Eastern's chapter of Sigma Chi, Eta Alpha, was founded January 11, 1970 and has grown to be very successful at Eastern.

Eta Alpha participated in many events during the year. Competing in intramural flag football, the Beta football tournament and SAE County Fair the Sigma Chi's received first runner-up honors in each.

In the fall, the chapter sponsored its annual Sigma Chi Derby with all sororities taking part in the action and an all Greek mixer to end the exciting week.

Civic projects included taking children of the Telford Community Center trick-or-treating and collecting for UNICEF at the same time and contributing to Wallace Village.

The Sweetheart Dance in honor of the Sweetheart and the Little Sisters of Sigma Chi was held in the early fall in Lexington. Many alumni returned for homecoming and enjoyed the fun of Eta Alpha's homecoming dance. The spring formal at Gatlinburg, Tennessee brought the year to a close.

Editors Note

The year began with excitement and no hints of anything but a successful year ahead of me. I did not realize the extent of the job of editor and the trials and tribulations that lay in the days to come.

I held the title of editor but in reality the book had many editors — the section editors who without their help the book would still be in the planning stages instead of the printed form you have before you.

Resignation of key staff members produced temporary setbacks in the smooth production of the book. My special thanks to staff members who filled the vacant positions and helped give the year's work a depth and color necessary to make it complete. Recognition goes to staff members Jane Grise, Terry Taylor and business manager John Madras who stepped into these vacated positions and did a superb job.

The Milestone is noted throughout the country for its fine photography — this year was no exception to the rule. Headed by university photographer Larry Bailey who was always there to help me in choosing my color pictures and to lend a helping hand and give advice whenever I needed it. Also to Paul Lambert who shot the beauties and Who's Who. Although only with us first semester, special thanks goes to Alan Krantz and Jeff Hayes who turned out fantastic photos for the Milestone. Also thanks to student photographer Scott Adams. Going beyond his duty as photographer, Rick Yeh, who in the last weeks of work on the book provided us with needed prints at three in the morning, wrote copy, drew layouts and along with John Madras served as chief popcorn and omelette eater. Thank you Rick for your long hours of work and dedication.

Never having worked with the book in any other aspect than Business Manager, John Madras stepped into the sports editor's position when it was vacated. Anxious to fill the gap and meet past deadlines, he learned fast and produced an outstanding sports section. Thank you John for assuming your dual role and also for your words of encouragement.

Recognition is also deserved by the Journalism 303 class who contributed new ideas and hours of work to the book. Thank you goes to Vice President Donald Felner for his ideas and interest in the 1976 Milestone. To my adviser Doug Whitlock, I can't thank you for getting me up every morning at 8:30 but my special thanks goes to you for always being somewhere between your office and the Dean's when I needed your advice, supervision and understanding.

Also a hearty thank you to the secretaries in Public Information, Judy and Nancy for their assistance, Karl Park for his help with sports information and Don Rist for the art designing and trying to put my hazy ideas for the cover into print.

To Dick Peterman, Bob Anderson, Ralph Van Dyke and Gary McCullough a special thanks for your help that led to the printing of this book. Thank you is in line to Delmar Publishing Company and to Osborne Photo Labs, Cincinnati, Ohio for their endeavors.

My greatest appreciation goes to my parents and those friends who have stood by me and made my year as editor a rewarding and enjoyable one.

I feel as if all I have said is Thank You but without those who received the Thanks the 1976 Milestone would only be a dream instead of a reality. So again I say Thanks.

—Janet Leigh Smith

The 1976 MILESTONE was prepared by the students of Eastern Kentucky University and printed by offset lithography by Delmar Printing Company, Charlotte, North Carolina.

The paper stock is 80-pound Westvaco Coronation dull offset stock.

The cover is a blue Fabrikoid with blind embossures, applied foil stamping and a black overtone.

Body copy for the opening pages is Souvenir 14 point with two-point leading; and for the remainder of the book Souvenir 10- and 12-point with two-point leading. All cutlines are eight-point. Senior listings are 10-point and underclasses, nine-point. Headlines are Souvenir light.

Divisional pages are printed in two-tone black posterizations with Bicentennial flags overprinted in blue.

Cameras used to photograph activity pictures both four-color and black-and-white included Nikon (35mm), Leica (35mm), Minolta (35mm), Nikkormat (35mm), Rolleiflex (2 1/4 x 2 1/4), Maniyaflex (2 1/4 x 2 1/4), Koni-Omega (2 1/4 x 2 3/4) and Graferx View (4 x 5). Lens focal lengths used ranged from wide angle, 18mm, to telephoto 400mm. Senior and underclass portraits were photographed with a Beatie Portronic Camera 70mm, using dual Speedotron strobe lights, by Osborne Photographic Laboratories, Cincinnati.

Press run was 8,500 copies.

In Retrospect . . .

Man will prevail due to the knowledge he gains through the spirit of life and time . . .

“I will study and get ready, and perhaps my chance will come.”

Lincoln

“If I can put one touch of rosy sunset into the life of any man or woman, I shall feel that I have gained knowledge through my work.”

George Macdonald

Through play, I learned to laugh and relax and forget the pressures that surrounded me.

“No man is an island, entire of itself; every man is a piece of the Continent, a part of the main . . .”

John Donne

In pursuit of dreams, I found on this campus of learning a beautiful thought-provoking serenity in which to grow.

I gazed upon my environment and related the growth and changing phases to my interself.

Familiarity with nature never breeds contempt.
The more I learn the more I expect sunrises,
and the more I become aware of the inscrutable.

Like a sun who sets deeper each minute, so a man's eyes open wider with the knowledge of himself.
